BISHOP CANNON AID NOW FACES SENATE CHARGE

Treasurer of Anti-Smith Democrats Refuses to Testify.

BODY TO RECONVENE DURING NEXT WEEK

Clergyman, With Crutches, in Committee Room for Proceedings.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

A mild but adamant woman, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, Va., yesterday declined to testify before the Nye campaign funds committee of the Senate. As a result, the committee's inquiry into the affairs of Bishop James Cannon, jr., again was halted.

By her refusal to testify, Miss Burroughs has laid herself open to a charge of contempt of the Senate, an offense for which Harry Sinclair, the oil man, spent four months in the District Jail.

The Nye committee is seeking to determine what became of the $65,300 turned over to Bishop Cannon by E. C. Jameson, a New York financier, in 1928, and which the bishop was to use in his fight against Al Smith in Virginia.

Representative George Holden Tinkham, described by Bishop Cannon as the representative of "a wet Roman Catholic district of Boston," has charged the Methodist clergyman with failing to account for a major portion of the Jameson money.

Treasurer of Organization.

Miss Burroughs was treasurer of the Anti-Smith Democrats, Bishop Cannon's 1928 organization in Virginia, and she was summoned as a witness yesterday in the hope that she would throw some light on the disposition of the $65,300.

After she had consistently declined to answer questions and had been dismissed, Chairman Nye said there seemed nothing to do but to call the Senate's attention to her conduct and ask that body to cite her for contempt.

If this were done, the case of Miss Burroughs would be turned over to the United States attorney here.

Chairman Nye said yesterday that his committee will meet again one day next week. At that time, he said, the committee will consider making a report to the Senate, charging that Bishop Cannon violated the Federal corrupt practices act by failing to report receipt of the Jameson money within the period required by the act.

Bishop at Hearing.

Bishop Cannon, evidently much improved in health, was in the committee room throughout the proceedings yesterday. He sat slouched at a table, a pair of crutches tucked under his chin.

In walking, he sometimes used the crutches, and at other times simply carried them.

Once the hearing was over, he held a levee in the committee room. Quite a few men and women came forward to shake his hand, to sympathize with him, or to wish him well.

The Nye committee is determined that it will not allow Bishop Cannon to testify unless he agrees to submit to examination and to waive immunity from prosecution in the courts.

Woman Only Witness.

Under the double jeopardy clause in the Constitution, a citizen may not be tried twice for the same offense.

Miss Burroughs, a woman apparently in her thirties, was the only witness yesterday. At the outset, she read a statement which had been prepared with the help of a lawyer.

Using the same arguments that Bishop Cannon had used in a letter sent to the committee the night before, Miss Burroughs contended that the committee had no right to inquire ino her affairs.

Miss Burroughs attacked the legality of the Glass resolution under which the Nye committee is making the investigation, and held that the Federal corrupt practices act is unconstitutoinal so far as its provisions relating to presidential elections are concerned.

Hits Power Over Selection.

Bishop Cannon argues that Congress, while it has the power to determine the time when presidential electors shall be chosen, does not have any power over the selection of these electors. Under the Constitution, he says, the electors are chosen by the States.

The Federal corrupt practices act, he argues, can only be applied to expenditures in connection with election of senators and representatives.

It can not be applied to a presidential election, he says, because the selection of presidential electors is purely a State matter and conse-

Names and stories of the 35 concerns in The Post-Zain Contest, sponsored by The Washington Post, will be found on page 12. $10,000 in prizes are the awards.

Ad Writing Contest Prize Winners Named

$100 Awards Are Won by Miss Virginia Lee Ryan and Gilbert E. Stringer; Pearls Given to Three Other Contestants.

The race is over. Cash prizes of $100 go to Miss Virginia Lee Ryan, of 1321 M street northwest, and to Gilbert E. Stringer, 2301 Cathedral avenue northwest, for the best ads written in the combined third and fourth periods of The Post-Zain amateur Ad Writing Contest.

To the authors of the three next best amateur ads, strands of Richelieu pearls have been awarded by the judges. The winners are Miss Maydell Blackmon, Middleburg, Va.; William G. Westall, of Fort Humphreys, Va., and Francis Anthony McCann, of 1102 Eighth street northwest.

More than 600 additional contestants who will receive gifts of merchandise in recognition of ad writing merit will learn of their good fortune in Sunday's Post.

Miss Ryan, winner of one of the $100 prizes for an ad she wrote about Underwood & Underwood, has received the thrill of her life. Miss Ryan, a professional nurse, says she has written ads each week, but this is the first prize she has won since the contest started. Even though her previous ads did not win, she did not become discouraged; she felt if she kept on writing she would win.

"I have found writing ads very educational and interesting," she said. "When I was notified by The Post that I had won this prize I could not believe it. I rushed down to The Post, thinking they must have made a mistake. The news was too good to be true.

"I needed that money so badly. I even prayed last night I could get financial assistance and today my prayer was answered. I have so much sickness in my home and was desperate for additional funds. I couldn't possibly hope to win the $100 first prize by my amateur ads, and this week I was almost tempted not to send them in, but somehow I just couldn't give up. My circumstances would not warrant my giving up anything that might bring some financial return.

"Then, too, writing these ads eased my mind and gave me something to think about; gave me a means of en-

KING ORDERS HELEN TO LEAVE ROUMANIA

Queen Is Given Two Hours to Depart, Friends Assert; To Visit Belgrade.

Vienna, May 7 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Bucharest tonight said that an official report published there declared that Queen Helen had left for Belgrade on invitation of the Queen of Jugoslavia, who learned that Helen needed rest after her ordeal in nursing Crown Prince Michael through his illness.

Helen, it was said, would accompany the Jugoslavian royal family to their summer residence at Bled for two weeks, going on later to France.

Members of Queen Helen's entourage, however, said Queen Helen had been "invited" to leave by King Carol's master of ceremonies at 10 o'clock at night, and she had to leave by midnight.

From the same sources came the story that the invitation resulted from the meeting of King Carol and King Alexander last Monday, when, it was said, Carol asked his brother-in-law to endeavor to induce Queen Helen to agree to reside abroad on the condition that she be permitted to visit Roumania every summer and spend several months in the mountains with Crown Prince Michael.

During Michael's illness it was frequently pointed out that if the crown prince should die there would be no direct successor to the throne.

Any possibility of a marriage between the king and Mme. Lupescu was thought to be out of the question, however, and it was emphasized that no child of such a marriage could ever ascend the throne.

4 Die as Cloudburst Hits Area in Germany

Aschaffenburg, Bavaria, Germany, May 7 (A.P.).—Four lives were lost and heavy damages resulted when a cloudburst struck southwest Germany today. Torrents of rain poured down for hours, swelling rivers, flooding low-lying territory, tearing out bridges, inundating fields and destroying crops.

Soviet Secret Service Accused of 22 Deaths

Berlin, May 7 (A.P.).—Warsaw newspapers reported tonight, in dispatches from Khmarkov, that the Ogpu, Soviet secret service organization, executed 22 high officers in the Ukrainian military district.

The officers, the report said, were arrested a month ago and charged with attempting a military revolt.

SMITH, HIBBEN ASK STATE LIQUOR RULE

Paper Quotes Princeton's Head as Declaring Charge Is Vital.

Princeton, N. J., May 7 (A.P.).—The Daily Princetonian tomorrow will quote Alfred E. Smith as saying that "both political parties will have to take a definite stand on prohibition in the next presidential election."

"Citizens throughout the country are demanding a prompt settlement of the question," the former governor of New York is quoted as saying in an interview. He reviewed the suggestion of John J. Raskob, chairman of the national Democratic committee, of a supplementary eighteenth amendment for States dissatisfied with the present situation.

"The chairman of the Democratic national committee has offered the most important suggestion," says the former presidential candidate.

After outlining the Raskob proposal, Mr. Smith comments:

"In other words, this proposed reformation of prohibition entails the unquestionably sound Democratic principle of permitting the electorate to determine its own policy. Its leading feature is that it leaves the whole question to be settled by the people.

"The Southern States which are dry would never relax in the provisions of the present law; but on the other hand, such States as Connecticut, which are evidently overwhelm-

$50,000,000 Only Available, but $291,690,000 Amount Applied For.

(Associated Press.)

The $50,000,000 issue of Treasury bills to be dated May 11 yesterday was heavily oversubscribed. Secretary Mellon announced that the total amount applied for was $291,690,000, but that the amount accepted was $50,000,000.

Except for one bid for $30,000 at the rate of about three-fourths of 1 per cent, the highest bid made was $99,715, equivalent to an interest rate of about one and one-eighth per cent on an annual basis.

The average price of the bills to be issued is $99,701, while the average rate on a bank discount basis is about 1.18 per cent.

CRITICS SHOW WORLD TRADE BODY TENSION

War Debt Question Back of All Conferences and Meetings.

HEAD OF U. S. GROUP FORESEES NO CLASH

German Delegate Calls for Revision of Reparation Payment Plan.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

The growing tension in the gathering of nations represented in the International Chamber of Commerce found expression in various meetings yesterday while leaders of the chamber were hurrying from conference to conference in an effort to work out a general declaration of principles which should serve as the temporary economic guide for the world.

War debts and reparations and what is to be done about them, and what will happen if anything is done, were ever present in the background of the meetings and conferences.

The time of hearty handshakes between visitor and host was gone. Pleasant smiles have been affected by troubled minds and the representatives of various nations are fighting hard for achievement of those things which they and their governments believe would do their peoples most good.

Strawn Predicts No Clash.

"There will be no clash," said Silas H. Strawn, head of the American delegates and newly elected president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Strawn's prediction probably will be borne out; but the true test will come on the scope and definitenes of the declaration of principles the international chamber will approve.

Germany took representatives of the United States at their word and through the mouth of Dr. Carl Bergmann, who was formerly German secretary of state for finance, called for a revision of reparations as prescribed in the Young plan.

Dr. Bergmann's declaration had been expected following the support given Germany by Great Britain. A rough estimate found Germany and England on one side and France and the United States on the other, with Germany having much to gain, England having nothing to lose, France nearly frantic because of her possible loss and the United States not certain just what would be the result, but liable to a loss of $11,000,000,000 American taxpayers would have to pay.

German Avoids Politics.

Dr. Bergmann told the chamber that "we have been advised" not to discuss international debts. Where the advice came from he did not say. He had not the "slightest intention of making any recommendations which trespass into the dangerous field of politics," he said, but the chamber's duty was to take action on the question.

"When," Dr. Bergmann said, "we speak of the economic effects of the international debt settlements, we mean, of course, the effects of the reparation settlements. There is no use hiding behind the bush and covering the actual facts by general terms which might look less suspicious.

"I think it is much more courageous and practical to call a spade

RESCUERS FIND COURTAULD IN ARCTIC WASTE

Young British Scientist Is Returning to Base via Dog Team.

EXPLORER LOCATED AFTER 2-WEEK HUNT

Flier Will Make Survey of Ice Pack to Learn Fate of German.

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 7 (A.P.).—Augustine Courtauld, young British scientist who was believed to have been lost on the Greenland icecap, was found today and is on his way back to the base camp near the Greenland border.

The news that the scientist, for whom several parties have been searching for more than two weeks, had been found, was contained in a wireless message received here from Angmagsalik, Greenland, by the Danish ministry of marine.

The message said Courtauld was returning to the base of the British Arctic air expedition, of which he was a member, with H. G. Watkins, leader of the expedition.

Found by Dog-Team Party.

This fact led to the assumption here that Courtauld had been found by the dog-team rescue party which set out under Watkins' leadership three weeks ago to look for him.

The government newspaper Social Demokraten, in a dispatch for publication tomorrow, will say that Courtauld was found by the Watkins sledge party only a few hours after the arrival of Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flier, in his rescue plane.

Ahrenberg, who flew over the icecap from Angmagsalik, the newspaper will say, brought welcome food and supplies to both the rescued and the rescuers.

A message received from Ahrenberg at Angmagsalik stated that the flier intended to continue on 100 kilometers further across the icecap in an effort to ascertain whether Prof. Albert Wegener, German scientist, is safe.

Plight Feared Desperate.

The scene of the 27-year-old explorer's lone vigil was a point 140 miles from the west coast of Greenland and 7,000 feet up on the vast plateau of eternal ice.

Fear that he was in a desperate plight from cold and shortage of provisions increased as no word was received from him and after a search party, led by Watkins, failed to locate his station in March. Immediately a series of relief expeditions were organized.

In addition to Capt. Ahrenberg's dash to Greenland, the Icelandic patrol ship Odinn, carrying a plane, and the inspection ship Hvidbjorn steamed to the edge of the coastal ice barrier, neither was able to aid materially in the search.

Another plane in charge of the well-known pilot, Maj. Sydney Cotton, was shipped to Iceland from England last Monday.

Several relief expeditions were organized to search for Augustine Courtauld, son of S. A. Courtauld, wealthy British textile manufacturer, after anxiety was aroused over him.

CROWLEY, DESPERADO, IS SHOT AND CAPTURED IN WILD HOUR'S BATTLE

Associated Press Photos.

Rooming House Siege Blocks New York Traffic; Men Confess Killings.

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—Francis "Two Gun" Crowley, youthful desperado, was captured by police late today in an hour's gun battle, during which he was shot several times.

Trapped on the top floor of a rooming house at 303 West Ninetieth street with two companions, Crowley fought it out with police machine gunners. Penned in his room with a girl identified as Helen Walsh, 16, his companion on a motor party in which Patrolman Frederick Hirsch was shot to death Tuesday night, Crowley yielded only after officers had hewn their way through the roof and resorted to tear gas bombs.

Rudolph Durlinger, wanted in connection with the killing of Virginia Brannen, a taxi dancer, in Yonkers, N. Y., was captured with Crowley. Police an hour later said Durlinger had confessed it was he who killed the red-haired Brannen girl.

Companions Not Wounded.

Durlinger and the woman companion were not wounded in the exchange of more than 700 shots, which threw the uptown Manhattan neighborhood into excitement and attracted a throng of nearly 10,000 spectators.

Crowley, with bullet wounds in his legs, was taken to Bellevue Hospital. The girl and Durlinger were taken to police headquarters under heavy guard.

Crowley's capture came after a search which had covered the five boroughs of New York City and every road and lane of Long Island for miles around North Merrick, the town in which Patrolman Hirsch was killed. Today the chase had extended into New Jersey, but no real clew to Crowley's whereabouts was found until late this afternoon when detectives picked up his trail.

Summon Reinforcements.

Detectives entered the rooming house and called for reinforcements when Crowley refused to answer their request to admit them to the apartment.

From vantage points in nearby houses guns were trained on windows of the room. Another order was given to the occupants to come out, and bullets were the answer. Then police raked the windows with machine gun fire. Bullets clipped pieces of stone from the face of buildings across the street. The police returned the fire and for nearly an hour the neighborhood rattled with machine gunnery and pistol shots, while in the street squads of police formed lines and held back crowds which sought to get within the danger zone.

Reserves were sent from several precincts and traffic was cleared from the block.

Crowley Finally Yields.

After Crowley had been wounded detectives got close enough to him to warn him that unless he gave up quickly he would be shot to death. He yielded to the last warning, staggering into hall, where he collapsed.

When Crowley was carried out of the building on a stretcher unconscious from his wounds a cloth was thrown over him and police believed he had been killed. It was not until ambulance physicians had examined him that it was discovered he merely had fainted. At Bellevue Hospital it was said he had sat up and asked for something to eat.

Search of Crowley and the apartment revealed a small arsenal. He had a pistol holstered to each leg, below the knee, and five others were discovered in the building and its back yard.

Inspector Henry E. Bruckman, in charge of Bronx detectives, who trailed Crowley down to the Ninetieth street address, said the young gunman had first shouted that he had no firearms, but the police decline to take the risk of smashing in the door.

Threw Pistols Away.

Three of the pistols were .38-caliber automatics, one a .45-caliber auto-

RETURN OF FOKKER PLANES AGREED ON

Craft, Temporarily Banned, to Come Back in Service After Adjustments.

(Associated Press.)

A program was agreed upon yesterday by Anthony H. G. Fokker, Commerce Department officials and Air Transport operators to put a series of Fokker F-10 and F-10-A planes, temporarily restricted from passenger carrying, into full service.

Certain reconditioning and maintenance items which concern the wings are involved in the program, together with a modification of the aileron design.

"The latter is intended," said Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, "to correct an aerodynamic characteristic as well as to give effect to more recently accepted practices.

"The program determined upon will be carried out by engineers and inspectors of the aerodynamics branch of the Department of Commerce; engineers of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation, and personnel of the Air Transport companies which have been operating the two types of aircraft.

"Orders to the field personnel of the aeronautics branch with respect to the program were telephoned this afternoon and field representatives of the Fokker Company and the Air Transport operators also are being advised. The aircraft involved are located at St. Louis, Dallas, Los Angeles, Miami and San Francisco, where the necessary work can be carried out.

"While it is difficult to foretell how much time will be required to carry out the program, the department wishes to emphasize that the work will be undertaken and pursued without delay."

The program was mapped out in a series of conferences which started

COAL MEN RETURN TO LONG-TON BASIS

Lansburgh Says Association Members Welcome Test of Weights Law.

The Merchants and Manufacturers Association announced yesterday that all members of its coal section have agreed to resume the selling of coal by the long ton of 2,240 pounds, but at the same time will continue sale of 2,000-pounds units, choice being left with the customer.

This action was revealed in a typewritten statement issued by Mark Lansburgh, president of the association, following another conference between Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and attorneys for the coal dealers. Mr. Bride declined to make any statement other than to say that the new turn of affairs would be explained to the District Commissioners today.

While the next step of the Commissioners is a matter of conjecture, the return of the coal dealers to the long ton standard is expected to nullify, if not block, any court action the District heads may propose.

A sharp difference of opinion on legality of the 2,000-pound unit is known to exist in the corporation counsel's office, and both sides of the argument will be explained to the Commissioners. Vernon L. West, assistant corporation counsel, drafted the first opinion, which was pigeonholed when it was evident that the Commissioners wanted a test case.

The task of preparing the District's case was then turned over to William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, because he adhered firmly to the opinion that the coal dealers have been violating the District weights and measures law.

Heretofore coal dealers have been refusing to sell coal by the long ton, thus making clear cut the issue, whether coal must be sold by the long ton in the District. With the

Mining Town Cheers Welcome to Troops

Reports of Expected Trouble Belied as 325 Kentucky Guardsmen Detrain; Military, Civil and Union Leaders Hold Peace Parley.

Evarts, Ky., May 7 (A.P.).—Waving American flags and cheering loudly, several hundred residents of the strife-torn Evarts coal mining community greeted 325 national guardsmen as they detrained here this afternoon bearing orders to "protect those who behave themselves and take charge of those who do not."

The guardsmen, dispatched by Gov. Flem D. Sampson after a series of outbreaks during the past few months had brought death to five men and large property damage, came from Harlan, where they were mobilized this morning.

Almost immediately plans were under way for a peace parley to solve permanently Harlan County's labor troubles. A rural schoolhouse, closed because of disturbances, was chosen for the meeting and Col. Dan M. Carrell, Police Judge Bradley Burkhart and union leaders were the envoys of military, civil and union interests.

While the troops were alighting from their special train made up of day cosches, box cars and conductors' cabooses, Col. Dan M. Carrell, in command, addressed an assembly of residents and union miners in the little schoolhouse.

He told newspapermen he had spent a part of the morning conferring in Harlan with union officials, mine operators and county officers in an effort to find a permanent solution to the economic situation and labor disagreements that have resulted in hundreds of unemployed miners in the county. He said he would report direct to Gov. Sampson on the results of his conferences.

Addressing the meeting in the school, Col. Carrell said, "We are here solely for the protection of the community with an impartial and unbiased attitude to preserve peace and safety." He was introduced by Dr. S. E. Crouch, a local physician, and then W. M. Hightower, president of the local United Mine Workers, asked all who would cooperate with the soldiers to hold up their hands. Hands went up throughout the hall to the accompaniment of a rousing cheer. Union leaders are to meet again tomorrow to discuss the situation.

Maj. George M. Cheschier told the people not to worry if they saw patrols on the streets, that if put out they would be there to protect the residents. Arrangements were made to quarter the guardsmen in the local hotel, in the cars on which they came and wherever room could be found, but it was expected they would pitch camp on the outskirts of town tomorrow.

The mines lie 2 and 3 miles away from Evarts and no immediate plans were made for the soldiers to replace the mine guards. The latter remained on duty.

During the meeting Hightower asked that a collection be taken up for a miner evicted from his home on company property and Col. Carrell and Maj. Cheschier contributed $3, the money needed to move the man's belongings to another place.

Cornell Head Denies Place To German on War Tablet

Dr. Farrand, After Lengthy Conference With Memorial Chairman, Declines to Announce Alteration to Include Wagner's Name Among Heroes.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 7 (A.P.).—Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University, after an all-afternoon conference declined today to announce any change in the tablet on Cornell's World War Memorial to add the name of Hans Wagner, who died fighting for Germany.

The memorial tablet lists the names of 264 other sons of Cornell who died in the war. All served in the A. E. F., or the allied armies.

President Hoover, according to announced plans, will participate in the dedication of the memorial, a group of four buildings to serve as dormitories, speaking from the White House on May 23.

All afternoon Robert E. Tremean, a student while Wagner was at Cornell, and the chairman of the war memorial campaign committee that raised the $800,000 for construction of the buildings, was closeted with the university's head. Tremean, too, had no statement to make after the conference.

He went to the president after considerable discussion developed following on the appearance of an editorial in the Cornell Daily Sun, student publication, advocating the inclusion of Wagner's name in the list of war dead, as a "noble gesture."

Wagner was enrolled at Cornell in 1908-1909. Inclusion of his name on the memorial, the Sun argued, would make that edifice a monument to international understanding. It would provide a recognition that there are two sides to international questions, and that war judgments are distorted by passion, the Sun suggested.

"War as an institution," said the editorial, "no one wants to commemorate; memorials are raised in honor to the courage and devotion to duty that characterized our war heroes. No single army had a monopoly on these virtues."

Four Killed and 31 Injured As Train Hits School Bus

Six More Children Expected to Die as Result of Crash at Crossing in California; Driver, Seriously Hurt, Did Not See Approaching Freight Cars.

Merced, Calif., May 7 (A.P.).—Four children were killed and the driver of their grammar school bus probably fatally injured when the vehicle was struck by a Santa Fe freight train this afternoon. Six children were expected to die and 25 others were hurt, some seriously.

Those killed were Jean Ahr, 10; Robert Fuller, 10; Bill Epsen, 8, and his twin sister, Dolores.

The bus was driven by J. P. Kregger. His wife was among the seriously injured.

Kregger said he did not see the train. Conductor J. A. Holmes, of the freight train, said the bus did not stop at the track, but drove ahead into the train, with the engineer blowing the whistle and the wigwam signal at the crossing working.

Engineer George Parks said the train had slowed down for a switch and was traveling 8 miles an hour when it hit the bus.

The injured include Lee Bortorff, Jack Quilline, June Tucker, Leland Baleme, Roxy Piovanni, Marshal Tuttle, Richard Fulton, Wilbert Clements, Richard Weller, Shirley Keller, Muriel Keller, Merilyn Robinson, Dolores Reed, Helen Fogelman, Irene Ahr, Bobby Rau, Esther Barnes, Jean Oakes and Clifford Weller. The children are all students at the John C. Fremont Grammar School here.

The wreck was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wicklund, who were driving behind the bus. Mr. Wicklund said he saw the train just before the crash and heard the children scream, then heard their cries drowned out by the impact. He said the engine's whistle sounded just before the crash.

The injured were rushed to Mercy Hospital and all the doctors and nurses in the county were summoned.

matic, and the fifth a .38 special, believed to have been taken from Patrolman Hirsch in the Long Island killing. Durlinger, police said, explained that just before the surrender he tossed some of the pistols out of a window.

It was Durlinger who produced the second climax of the drama when, police said, under questioning he admitted that it was he who shot Miss Brannen to death. He denied, however, that he was with Crowley when Policeman Hirsch met his death.

Police said Durlinger put up a fight in the rooming house and that the girl also struggled fiercely against capture.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney directed the siege. He invaded the tear gas-filled rooming house, followed by Assistant Chief Inspector John Sullivan. Detective John Broderick had preceded them, but staggered out in a few minutes and collapsed, overcome by the fumes.

Murder Confessions Claimed.

After being revived he returned to the attack. Commissioner Mulrooney emerged after a while, his eyes all but closed from the noxious smoke.

Police stated tonight that the capture of Crowley and Durlinger had yielded confessions from the youths that would clear up two murders and the shooting of another person.

The killings to which Crowley and Durlinger had confessed, the authorities announced, were those of Virginia Branner, April 27, whose body was found in a hedge on a Yonkers, N. Y., seminary grounds, and Patrolman Frederick Hirsch, May 5, shot to death when he approached a motor car parked in a lonely road near North Merrick, L. I.

Detective Was Wounded.

The other shooting victim was Detective George Schaedel, of the Bronx, who trapped Crowley, on March 14, in an office building in Lexington avenue near Grand Central Station.

The search for Crowley began two months ago when he wounded a Bronx detective who wanted to question him. It was renewed vigorously two weeks ago when Virginia Brannen, hostess in a Harlem dance hall, was shot to death and her body thrown behind a hedge in Yonkers.

Police were at work on half a dozen leads, most of them obtained from statements made by Clinton "Pinky" Davis, 19, and John McCahill, 19, who started out with Crowley on the ride which ended in the patrolman's death. Both told police that Crowley had told them repeatedly:

"If a cop ever comes up to me it will be either him or me."

The boys said Crowley told of the killing of Virginia Brannen but always denied that he was guilty. "I could shoot a man all right," he told them, "but I wouldn't have the heart to shoot a girl."

Three Held as Witnesses.

While the search was going on, Mrs. Edna Walsh, mother of the missing girl, walked into the headquarters of the Nassau County police and defended Crowley as a boy who had "never done anything wrong." She appeared unworried by suggestions that her daughter may have been killed. Another woman, Mrs. Edith Davis, keeper of the rooming house at which Crowley boarded and the mother of "Pinky" Davis, was held in $10,000 bail as a material witness. Her son and John McCahill also are held.

Until a year ago crowley touched only the fringes of crime. He was arrested four times for auto thefts, but each time the case was dismissed. He wore two guns strapped to his waist and called himself "Killer" Crowley and "Two Gun" Crowley.

The police statement said that Crowley had admitted planning to put another New York detective "on the spot" last Sunday. He named his intended victim, the department officials said, as Thomas J. Sheehan, Bronx.

They said Crowley related that he was about to shoot Sheehan when he saw that the officer had his wife and children with him in a motor car, and changed his mind.

Crowley's alleged confession stated that he "had a part" in the Brannen killing and he named Rudolph Durlinger in connection with the crime.

Woman Dressed As Man Arrested

No Charge Is Yet Placed Against Prisoner Being Held in Prince Georges.

A woman dressed in men's clothing was arrested yesterday between Cottage City and Mount Rainier by Deputy Tom Garrison and is being held in the Hyattsville jail. No charge has been placed against her.

The girl gave her name as Helen Moore, of Lancaster, Pa. She said she was 28 years old, but refused to answer further questions.

She was dressed in gray trousers, a brown coat and a gray cap. When asked why she adopted this garb, she is reported to have told police that it was "quicker." She was making no attempt to obtain rides from passing motorists, Garrison said.

Merger Proposed By Church Groups

Two Denominations Plan Virginia and Carolina Joint Body.

Greensboro, N. C., May 7 (A.P.).—Representatives of four conferences in the Carolinas and Virginia of the Congregational and Christian churches at a meeting here today indorsed a proposal to merge the conference into one body to be known as the Council of Congregational and Christian Churches.

The church organizations represented were the Western North Carolina Christian Conference, the Eastern North Carolina Christian Conference, the Congregational Conference of the Carolinas and the Congregational Conference of North Carolina and Virginia.

Before the merger is effective, the proposal must be approved by the general conference of the Congregational Church, to be held at Seattle, Wash., in June, and by the State and general conferences of the Christian Church.

The proposed extension of Massachusetts avenue was discussed at a conference between county officials and representatives of the Bradley Hills Community League at Bethesda.

The Community League has requested that the extension of Massachusetts avenue be included in this year's road program.

Col. A. B. Barber, Charles H. Merryman, Carter Clagett and Dr. Edward Etz represented the Community League. Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the Bethesda District Montgomery Government Club; Maj. Later, when her property burned down, Mrs. Bennett attempted to collect the fire insurance and found it had lapsed. She claimed that the trust company was negligent in failing to notify her of cancellation of the insurance policy.

$500,000 SANITARY BOND ISSUE SOLD

Money to Extend Water and Sewer Mains in Prince Georges, Montgomery.

Five hundred thousand dollars' worth of Sanitary Commission bonds were sold yesterday to Baltimore interests, subject to approval of the issue by the Maryland Public Service Commission. The bonds, proceeds of which will be used for the extension of sewer and water mains in Prince Georges and Montgomery counties, were sold at $105.31.

The securities were bought by the Union Trust Company of Baltimore and a group of bankers associated with this institution. Three bids were received, the Union Trust being the highest. The bonds brought a premium of approximately $25,000 over their face value.

The Public Service Commission has set May 26 as a date for the hearing of the issue. Members of the Sanitary Commission last night explained that the hearing is only a formality, as permission to issue the bonds always has been granted. If there is any hitch, however, the issue may be recalled.

The largest project to be financed by the bonds is the extension of the Sanitary Commission's water mains along the Marlboro pike in the vicinity of Greater Capitol Heights. This extension was authorized by the recent legislature to take care of a possible drought this summer.

ALEXANDRIA COUNCIL POST IS GIVEN WEIL

Vacancy Caused by Pierce Resignation Filled by Election.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU. 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

Benedict Weil was elected yesterday afternoon at a meeting of city council to fill the vacancy in that body caused by resignation of Mayor Carroll Pierce.

After a lengthy session covering many items of permits, the clerk read three communications, one from Alva Aerie, No. 871, Fraternal Order of Eagles, urging the council to select a man for the vacancy from the newly annexed territory, in accordance with a resolution passed by that order; one from the Alexandria Citizens Association, also urging consideration of a man from the new territory, and a third, from the Democratic Club of the Sixth Ward, signed by William E. Sellers, chairman, and James E. Boltwood, secretary, asking favorable consideration for Charles L. Burgess, a resident of the newly annexed territory.

After the reading of these communications the council went into executive session. After about 45 minutes Mayor Ticer called the meeting to order and stated that an election would be held to fill the vacancy. Councilman Lamond nominated Mr. Weil, who was seconded by Councilman Herbert. Councilman Dwyer nominated George L. Burgess, who was not seconded. The vote was put and Herbert, Lamond and Ticer voted for Mr. Weil. Dwyer voted for his nominee, regardless of a second. Dwyer then moved that the election of Weil be made unanimous.

BOTH CONVENTIONS SEEN IN MIDWEST

Chicago, Cleveland, Kansas City Favored by Leaders of Two Parties.

(United Press.)

Both presidential nominating conventions will be held in the Middle West next year, according to the best judgment of Republican and Democratic party leaders.

San Francisco or Los Angeles seemed for a time to be favored for the Republican convention, on the ground that it would be appropriate to renominate President Hoover in his home State. But Republican party managers are strongly in favor of meeting in the Middle West, preferably Chicago or Cleveland. Either of these places or Kansas City would be satisfactory to Democratic leaders.

In both instances the choice will be made by the respective national committees, which will meet next winter to fix the time and place of the conventions. The purses offered with the various bids will speak more loudly than arguments about climate accommodations and political advantage. The depression is likely to make campaign fund collections difficult, and a purse of $200,000 or so will receive a kindly hearing from either national committee.

Republican sentiment has undergone a decided shift. For a time it was regarded as almost certain the convention would go to the Pacific Coast. Now there is a strong desire to choose a central location, Illinois or Ohio, both of which have shown decided Democratic tendencies lately, preferred. First, a central location is desired to promote the largest possible attendance of delegates, alternates and party workers.

The party is facing a hard struggle, and it is desired to make the convention a great party rally where the maximum number of workers can be assembled, aroused, backslapped by the big men of the party, and perhaps vaguely promised "something good" if they deliver. The expense of journeying to the Pacific Coast—or to the Atlantic Seaboard, for that matter—is regarded as likely to cut down the attendance of the camp followers whose attendance is particularly desired this time.

A great deal is also said about the necessity of meeting in doubtful territory. It is an old theory that you can improve the chances of carrying a close State by holding the national convention in it. Democrats went to Houston, Tex., in 1928, it is true, but it was also due to the hope that a gesture of this sort would make Alfred E. Smith more acceptable to the South, yet he lost Texas and three other Southern States which had not gone Republican since reconstruction days.

The supposed effect of the convention locale on the choice of a nominee may, however, enter into the Democratic calculations. It is not a factor with Republicans who regard renomination of Mr. Hoover as certain.

Republican headquarters here has been advised that Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco intend to make bids for the national convention. Philadelphia, Atlantic City and New York may also make offers, it was said.

CRITICISM OF U. S. REVEALS WORLD TRADE BODY TENSION

a spade. It is a fact which I do not criticize that by the settlement of reparations now in force, interallied debts and reparations, to all practical intents and purposes, have been linked together.

"Under the Young plan Germany has to pay to her several creditors what they owe to the United States of America, so that the full burden of the so-called international debts falls upon Germany.

"Just what that means for Germany herself, for her economic development and for the individual German taxpayer, is not to be discussed before this forum, which is international. But when we examine and discuss—as we do here—the abnormal and precarious conditions of international trade in the present economic crisis, we can not close our eyes to the share of the disturbances which must be attributed to the factor of reparations.

"This talk of reconsideration must be continued and deepened."

German Buying Is Curtailed.

Germany's export trade had declined 1,000,000,000 reichsmarks in 1930, as compared with 1929, but her exports for the first quarter of 1931 showed an excess of 500,000,000 reichsmarks over her imports. This increase of exports over imports has been the result of forced shrinkage of imports, showing that the burden of reparations payments had forced Germany to curtail her purchase to a minimum, he said, adding:

"That such a development of Germany's trade is detrimental to the other countries, and the more so in a period of world-wide depression and in the last results to her because there are limits to everything, needs no further evidence."

Explanation of his questioning of the wisdom of the recent reparation settlement he said was "found in the simple fact that since the time when the negotiations were concluded between the experts the whole world has undergone such a sudden and fundamental change of all underlying economic conditions that a settlement which may have been considered possible of realization at the time. In view of the various safeguards provided for in cases of emergency, must now be looked at much more critically in the face of recnet economic developments.

Holds Problem Not Settled.

"The problem is not yet definitely settled. It still awaits a complete and final economic solution."

Dr. Bergmann's speech was looked on as the answer of those European interests seeking debt adjustment to the declaration of the American Government that the way out of the present business depression was not to be found through adjustment of war debts.

None of the foreign delegates who have attacked the American theories of high wages, protective tariff and payment of war debts have attempted to discuss the principle laid down by President Hoover to the opening session of the congress that Europe, now spending $5,000,000,000 annually for land armaments alone, should consider cutting down those expenditures as the first measure for her relief.

Belgian Hits U. S. Position.

E. Van Rompa, of Belgium, a grain dealer, joined in the attack on the American attitude on debts, indulging in a verbal shrug of his shoulders as he did.

"With less war debts and consequently better currency," he said by proxy, "this overproduction would perhaps never have occurred. The harm is done and I do not foresee that in the present circumstances it can be altered." He suggested that conditions might have been different if "countries such as the United States" had foreseen what is happening now.

Henry Bell, of England, a banker, struck a note which pleased his auditors when he attacked the United States because of its tariff.

U. S. Tariff Is Attacked.

"We ask them to rise to the responsibilities of their great position," Mr. Bell said, after describing the development of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation. This country, he said, has failed to appreciate the duties incident to its position of power.

"It is an attitude of one part of the world, if not of more, to be most anxious to sell its goods but to be very careful that it should not buy anybody else's goods in exchange," Mr. Bell said.

"What is hurting the world mostly today is, I think, a misconception of the part of the great nation whose guests we are. They are magnificent hosts but they are awfully poor customers.

Snell Issues Statement.

"In the whole of Europe America sells twice as much to Europe as it will take in exchange. We come here today to put it up to them as to whether they will face the new position in which they find themselves, whether they do not feel that in regard to this kind of debts and possibly in regard to the other kind of debts about which you havt just heard, a rather larger, a rather kinder, a rather better attitude might be taken."

The restiveness was not alone shown by the visitors. Representative Bertram H. Snell (Republican), of New York, took occasion to issue a statement protesting against debt agitation, asking "why make Uncle Sam the goat?"

Several members of Congress made their appearance about the United States Chamber of Commerce Building halls, where the international congress is being held, and Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, plunged right into a chamber meeting on silver.

Senator Talks on Silver.

Although Senator King, in whose State much silver is produced, was not a delegate, Lucius R. Eastman, of New York, chairman of the group meeting, and delegates accorded the senator the privilege of the floor and he took a very active part in the discussion on silver out of which came an agreement that the international chamber should recommend the calling of an international conference on silver.

The British proposed a resolution to take the place of that proposed by Tsuyee Pei, of China, but Senator King said that was not satisfactory. Whereupon Sir Arthur Balfour, of England, said, very well, the English would accept the Chinese resolution.

The questino was a touchy one with England becuase of the charges made against England by S. R. Bomanji, head of the Indian delegation, that she was using silver to oppress the people of India.

Special Committee Is Appointed.

Mr. Eastman, chairman, gave everybody a chance to talk and refused, as he described it, to railroad anyhting through. Sir Arthur said that he wanted the question studied by experts nad not by politicians. Senator King said that in this counrty there was a saying that experts were exerpts in confusing isaues.

Mr. Eastman finally brought order out of the peculiar parliamentary situation by appointing a committee designated by the heads of the varipue delegations and late in the afternoon an agreement apparently was reached on a resolution which would have the chamber urge an international silver conference. The resolution is to be presented to the resolutions committee today.

Georges Theunis, former premier of Belgium and retiring president of the chamber, poured oil on troubled waters in the course of a speech made at a banquet in the Washington auditorium, which was attended by delegates and guests. The international chamber's job, Mr. Theunis reminded the delegates, was not to enforce the opinions or theories or any person, group or nation, nor to act n behalf f the nations of the delegates.

Belgian Defines Aims.

"We are seeking to be helpful to those who govern the nations by expressing our minds and offering to those who govern the advice that our experience of business dictates," Mr. Theunis warned.

Mr. Theunis is head of the resolutions committee of the chamber. The committee is endeavoring to evolve out of conflicting interests and wills a general declaration to which all can subscribe. Members of the committee estimated yesterday that their report would be ready today. Whatever report it has to make must be submitted for action tomorrow, the last day of the meeting.

Resolutions which are, or are expected to be put, before the committee cover a wide field.

Would Regulate Agriculture.

Regulation of the production of agricultural products was advocated in a resolution adopted by one of the group meetings yesterday. The resolution was proposed by Alfred Falter, of Poland, and declared in favor of a "world-wide economic agreement which should encompass on the one hand the adaptation of the production to consumption by means of organizing such production with a view to its regulation, and, on the other hand, shall aim to a proper organization of commerce in order to avoid unnecessary disturbances of markets through diverse actions and individual methods."

The extent, direction and distribution of agricultural products, financing of crops, agricultural credits and amendment of "rigorous" agricultural protective measures, suppression of expor premiums and reduction of difficulties in importing, should be embraced in the international agreement, the resolution declared. It, too, is to be passed on by the resolutions committee.

H. L. Russell, who was formerly dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, approved of production being limited to consumption and criticized governmental action which sought to maintain prices artificially. He did not name the Federal Farm Board, but declared such activity as it had done could only be an inefficient temporary experient.

Favored Nation Treaties Upheld.

Another group meeting declared in favor of maintenance of the letter and spirit of most-favored nation treaties2. The declaration was formulated only after several meetings, in the course of which sharp disagreements arose.

The fight was over the Austro-German tariff arrangement. Other countries, naturally, wished to have that condemned. The final declaration was something of a compromise although, on the whole, the declaration was that most favored nation treaties should be observed scrupulously.

President and Mrs. Hoover received the delegates and their guests at a party at the White House at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and the official day of the chamber was brought to a close with a dinner in the auditorium at 7:30 o'clock.

The chamber will reconvene in plenary session at 9:45 o'clock this morning to consider subjects under the head of new commercial policies.

Foreign Delegations Invited to Baltimore

Representatives of the Baltimore Association of Commerce and the municipal government of Baltimore were in Washington yesterday to extend an invitation to foreign delegates attending the International Chamber of Commerce gathering to visit Baltimore Monday. The invitation was signed by William F. Broening, Mayor of Baltimore, and W. Frank Roberts, president of the Association of Commerce.

The delegates were asked to come to Baltimore and see its points of historic interest and enjoy a trip over its harbor with 127 miles of deep-water frontage. The port's modern facilities for handling coal and grain and bulk cargo will be stressed. After visits to educational institutions and city departments, a luncheon has been arranged, and the visitors will be brought back to Washington Monday evening.

WICKERSHAM HOLDS CRIME AN ATTITUDE

Chief Justice Hughes Says Study Will Develop Specifics.

Crime has gotten beyond the mere machinery of criminal justice and has become a "public habit of mind," George W. Wickersham, president of the American Law Institute and chairman of the National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, yesterday told delegates to the ninth annual meeting of the institute at the Mayflower Hotel.

He urged the need of "follow-up work" by the institute or "some such body" if the labors of the national commission, which expires June 30, "are to fructify into the most useful results."

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who followed him on the rostrum, also brought up the subject of the commission's crime report. He indorsed its criticism of criminal statistics published by the Federal Government, and proposed that a central statistical bureau, with adequate facilities, be maintained in the Department of Justice.

"The distinctive feature of our day is that through surveys, institutes and judicial councils, we are making an exhaustive catalogue of evils," said the Chief Justice. "As a result, specific will be found, and at least we have the most interesting of all occupations in trying to find them."

Chairman Wickersham told the delegates that public interest in prohibition has largely overshadowed any attention to other topics studied by the commission, such as police and the courts, causes of crime, cost of crime, juvenile delinquency and lawlessness of Government officials.

The speaker said that no one who follows current happenings can fail to note the existence of "a widespread lack of respect for law."

"It is painfully evident in the rapid increase of juvenile offenders," he said. "It is shockingly so in the almost jocular allusions to the pirates who prey upon legitimate business by systems which have become recognized and classified as 'rackets.'"

Wickersham voiced the hope that "a definite plan of action" will be produced by a subcommittee representing the American Bar Association, the American Law Institute and the Association of American Law Schools, which will report on a plan for improvement of criminal justice at the present session.

Referring to the wind-up of the work of the National Commission on Law Obervance and Enforcement appointed by President Hoover in 1929, the speaker said:

"Two years is all too short a time in which to make thorough and searching investigations into the effect of law, or lack of law, or into the social problems involved in the present unsatisfactory condition of observance and enforcement of our criminal law."

Should part of the work of the National Commission fall to the American Institute of Law, however, it should not interfere with the primary work in which it is engaged, the restatement of the common law, Wickersham said.

Legislative Inefficiency Is Hit.

Chief Justice Hughes predicted that "eventually even legislative inefficiency may receive attention, not simply in the recriminations of political campaigns, or in futile harangues on the multiplicity of laws, but in the intelligent devising of improved methods."

He discussed problems raised by the Conference of Senior Federal Circuit Judges, the need for more judges and judicial districts, and suggested a "competent survey and report" on the question.

He urged that legislation amending the statute creating the conference, authorizing it to recommend to Congress necessary changes in statutory law affecting jurisdiction, practice, evidence and procedure, be enacted at the next Congress.

Statistical Bureau Urged.

Referring to the Law Enforcement Commission's recommendation of a central bureau to record crime statistics, he said:

"The report makes it evident, as it seems to me, that we can expect but slight, if any, improvement in our statistical methods unless an adequate organization is maintained for this purpose in the Department of Justice, with a supervising staff through which accurate, comprehensive and uniform statistics can be obtained."

The institute will devote most of its three-day session here to reviewing and discussing the results of its nine-year-old task of restating or clarifying and simplifying existing common law decisions.

Will Call at White House Today.

Yesterday the delegates heard a report of the progress in law restatement by William Draper Lewis, director of the institute, and plans for the publication of restatements, by Herbert F. Goodrich, adviser on professional and public relations.

Prof. Joseph H. Beale, of the Harvard Law School, who, since 1923, has been working on a restatement of conflict of laws, led an afternoon discussion on the proposed final draft, and Richard R. Powell, of Columbia University, led consideration of the final draft on property.

Following the afternoon session there was a reception and tea for members and guests of the institute and the ladies accompanying them at the Mayflower Hotel. This afternoon at 5 o'clock President Hoover will receive the delegates at the White House. Consideration of various drafts in the law restatement process will continue all day today at the Mayflower.

DEBT CANCELLATION ATTACKED BY SNELL

House Rules Chairman Also Hits at Effort to Lower Rates of Tariff.

(Associated Press.)

Asking why internationalists "always decide Uncle Sam must be the goat," Representative Snell yesterday opposed cancellation of war debts or lowering of the "tariff wall" as measures to relieve the world business depression.

The New York Republican, chairman of the House rules committee and a candidate for the Speakership, said in a statement that headlines on the International Chamber of Commerce convention gave the impression the only solution for the depression "is for the United States first to give up what it has been able to save during the storm."

"First, we must cancel the debts which the European nations owe us—not for money loaned them after the war to rehabilitate themselves," he said. "The most casual examination of the figures of all the debt settlements will show that we are actually only requiring them to pay what they borrowed after Armistice Day, with a very low interest rate.

"Second, we must take down our 'tariff walls,' so that the workers in the European factories may be employed making articles which are now made here, and so that the Russian and Argentine farmers may sell us wheat at a price 22-odd cents below the price our farmers are now receiving."

Small Boy Is Injured When Struck by Auto

George H. Robinson, 4, was seriously injured yesterday when he ran into the street in front of his home at 320 Sexteenth street southeast and was struck by an auto. W. B. Caton, of Pennsylvania avenue near L'Enfant Square, was driving the auto, according to police.

Removed to Casualty Hospital in a passing machine, the child was found to have a compound fracture of the left leg, possible fractured skull and internal injuries, and bruises and lacerations of the head and body. Caton was not held.

SMITH, HIBBEN URGE STATE RUM CONTROL

ingly wet, would have the right to more liberal statutes, and would certainly take advantage of the opportunity."

In another statement appearing in the undergraduate daily, President John Grier Hibben voices his approval of the Crusaders, an organization of young men, which is seeking repeal of prohibition.

He says it is an effort "to gain for the United States control of the liquor traffic which will be most responsible and effective."

"In this spirit I am in favor of the idea," he says. "The present Federal control is neither responsible nor effective."

President Hibben says that "of course the eighteenth amendment can not simply be repealed and nothing done about it. Action must be taken on the present law and reverted to the several States. The matter is in the end a State problem."

BUTLER'S HUERTA REMARK IGNORED

Bellegarde Matter Closed, Stimson Overlooks Mexican Incident.

(Associated Press.)

The State Department disposed yesterday of the second recent international incident involving Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, and decided to ignore what appeared to offer potentialities of a third incident.

Secretary Stimson announced a formal explanation submitted by Minister Bellegarde of Haiti, in response to a request by the State Department regarding remarks he was quoted as making about the Marine officer in a newspaper interview, had satisfactorily closed the incident.

The minister explained in his note that he had not endeavored to cast reflections on the Marine officer when he referred in the interview to Fort Riviere in Haiti, for the capture of which Butler was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

The minister said he had not claimed the fort was nonexistent, but said he did not know of its existence.

A speech last night in Philadelphia in which Butler said he had seen the late President Huerta of Mexico "drunk" attracted widespread interest in both diplomatic and official circles. An indirect criticism by Butler of the State Department's Nicaraguan policy likewise came under official scrutiny.

Since the references to Huerta were mainly of a personal character directed against a dead man, State Department officials decided they should be ignored. It was felt that only should the question be raised by the Mexican government would the State Department be justified in taking up such references, particularly since the person referred to was not alive.

The general's indirect references to the Nicaraguan policy were considered to express his personal opinion.

The State Department recently formally apologized to the Italian government for a speech made in Philadelphia by Butler in which he referred to Premier Mussolini as a hit-and-run driver.

WILLIAM POWELL, EDITOR, SUCCUMBS

Political Writer Served in Early Progressive Party Ranks.

William W. Powell, former editor and political writer and a pioneer in the Progressive movement, died early yesterday at his home, 1869 Mintwood place northwest, following a heart attack which he suffered last month, although he had been ill for several months.

Mr. Powell was for many years an intimate associate of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette as a newspaper correspondent at Madison and in Washington. While a star reporter and chief political writer for the Milwaukee Free Press he was one of the first newspaper writers to interpret the beginning of the Progressive movement in Wisconsin.

He was born October 22, 1873, at Bowen, Ill., the son of the Rev. Curtis and Margaret Welsh Powell. His father was a prominent figure in the Methodist Church and an associate of Peter Cartwright. After attending the University of Michigan, Mr. Powell entered newspaper work in Wisconsin, beginning his career on the State, published at Madison by the founders of the Progressive movement. In later years he came to be one of the closest political advisors of Senator La Follette and assisted as one of the divisional managers in La Follette's campaign opposing Taft and Roosevelt for the Republican nomination for President in 1912.

He served several years on the staff of the Chicago Record Herald, edited the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Gazette, and was managing editor of the La Crosse (Wis.) Chronicle. During the World War, Mr. Powell aided in directing Liberty Loan drives in Chicago and southern Wisconsin.

Mr. Powell married Lady May Seelye, daughter of Vinson and Josephine Seelye, of Chicago. He is survived by his widow; a sister, Mrs. Ellen P. Dabney, head of the economics department of the public schools of Seattle, Wash.; three brothers, the Rev. Llewellyn A. Powell, of Dunbar, Wis.; Thomas Powell, of Bowen, Ill., and Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Powell, recently retired as head of the department of philosophy at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Funeral services will be held at the late residence this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and interment will follow at Beltsville Cemetery, near Hyattsville, Md.

Former Boston Liquor Raider Is Sentenced

Boston, May 7 (A.P.).—Oliver B. Garrett, former head of the police liquor squad, today pleaded guilty to two indictments as his third trial opened for conspiracy to extort. The indictments to which he pleaded guilty charged conspiracy to extort money from John F. Sullivan, former hotel proprietor, and acceptance of a gratuity as a police officer.

He was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction on each indictment, sentences to run concurrently, and fined $200.

MINING TOWN CHEERS WELCOME TO TROOPS

Col. Carrell said he was informed the Red Cross would come in with aid.

It was an exciting day in Evarts. Never before has such activity been known in this little mountain village which jumped from a population of 500 to 1,400 during a decade of coal mining operations in nearby hills. Coal mining and Evarts are synonymous, and many believed the future of the community depended almost entirely upon the outcome of the peace meeting.

Willing to Cooperate.

Frankfort, Ky., May 7 (A.P.).—The first report of Col. Dan M. Carrell to Gov. Flem D. Sampson on conditions in the Harlan County coal fields was to the effect that coal operators and miners have expressed willingness to cooperate in settling their disputes, the Governor said tonight.

At a preliminary conference of labor leaders and mine owners, a spirit of harmony prevailed, Col. Carrell told the Governor. Gov. Sampson said the conferences would be continued "and there is every indication they will arrive at an amicable settlement."

Col. Carrell reported everything was quiet upon the arrival of State troops there.

COURTAULD IS FOUND IN ARCTIC ICE PACK

auld and fourteen other young scientists left London last July for Greenland to determine the feasibility of an air route across the Arctic from England to Canada. The expedition was under auspices of the Royal Geographical Society.

The group reached Angmagssalik August 14, and established a base at Sermelik Fjord, 35 miles inland. A small party scaled the ice cap where they set up a meteorological station about 140 miles inland. Subsequently Courtauld volunteered to spend the winter alone at the station. In March Mr. Watkins led a small group to look for Courtauld, but was unable to locate the site due to a change of terrain and bad weather. He returned to the main camp, but later started out on another search with a larger party.

LORDS REJECT PART OF LAND MEASURE

Commons Backers Expected to Resent Bill's Change; Crisis May Result.

London, May 7 (A.P.).—The House of Lords today threw out all of the main provisions of the government's agricultural land utilization bill by rejecting part one of the measure. The vote was 32 to 31.

Observers believe this action may precipitate a crisis for the bill, which opponents have described as a measure of unadulterated socialism. It already has passed all readings in the House of Commons, and the government is known to set great store by it.

Previously the House of Lords had changed the proposal by turning down two clauses of the bill dealing with establishment of an agricultural land corporation, and with the power of the government to acquire land for use as demonstration farms.

After the third reading of the bill in the House of Lords, which is expected within a few days, it will be returned to commons for reconsideration.

It is regarded as impossible the government will accept the plan in its mutilated form. The only way, therefore, to get it into law would be to invoke the parliament act under which it could be passed over the lords' veto in two years.

Uncertainty as to whether the present government will still be in office then and irritation which many of its members are known to feel regarding what they consider obstructive and hostile tactics of the House of Lords seem likely to lead to plain speaking from the government side.

Commentators are looking for a likely issue for the general elections in the controversy. They think that the cry of "peers versus the people" is well within the bounds of possibility.

Some observers think that the chance of fighting on such an issue would be warmly welcomed by the laborites and that the opportunities of going before the people on it may be seized immediately.

BRITISH STILL HOPE FOR NAVAL ACCORD

Look to Geneva Instead of London for Three-Power Final Settlement.

London, May 7 (A.P.).—The British government refuses to take the view that all is lost in regard to the Anglo-Franco-Italian naval agreement, although it is looking to Geneva rather than to London to provide a final settlement.

A meeting of naval experts of the three countries was held at the foreign office today and the situation was considered as it stands following receipts of Italian and British replies to the French memorandum of April 20.

After the conference a communique was issued saying the correspondence exchanged had brought out an "earnest desire" of the three governments concerned to overcome the present difficulties. With this aim, it was stated, oral exchanges of views will continue.

The communique pointed out, however, that French and Italian experts were due at Geneva next Monday and that foreign ministers of the three countries also would be in the same city next week.

An opportunity thus will be provided for continuing discussions at Geneva with the added advantage of having Arthur Henderson, Aristide Briand and Dino Grandi, foreign ministers for England, France and Italy, respectively, in personal contact.

Mystery of Eskimo Origin Will Be Traced in Alaska

Smithsonian Institution Sends Two Young Explorers to Point Barrow, Believed Strategic Point in Study of Race History.

(Associated Press.)

Solution of the mystery of the Eskimo's origin, a secret as far locked fast in the Arctic wastes, will be sought by two young explorers.

They are James A. Ford and Moreau B. Chambers, sent by the Smithsonian Institution to study relics of ancient Eskimo tribes at Point Barrow, northernmost land under the American flag, and in the Bering Sea region where the Eskimo civilization of 1,500 years ago is believed to have attained its "golden age." They left here yesterday.

The oldest known Eskimo civilization, found last summer on St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea, is not more than 3,000 years old, scientists estimate. Chambers will look for still older remains, believed to exist in buried huts and trash piles that are frozen solid the year 'round.

Two Civilizations Known.

Point Barrow, which juts out from northern Alaska into the Arctic Sea, is believed to be a highly strategic point in the study of Eskimo history. Archaeologists think it was the point of separation between two ancient Eskimo civilizations.

One, known as the "old Bering Sea culture," was characteristic of tribes that lived in eastern Alaska and western Siberia. The other, the "Thule culture," was developed later by Eskimos who lived along the northern edge of North America, Greenland and the west coast of Hudson Bay.

Ford will look for traces of both cultures at Point Barrow. A ship will leave him there early in August as the ice opens and call for him again a month later, when the ice of next winter will begin closing in.

Summer Sun Will Help.

The explorers can dig in the frozen ground only by slow degrees with the aid of the Arctic summer sun. Each day they will scrape away the two or three inches of earth that the sun has thawed the day before, and then wait until a few more inches have thawed.

Normally, the ground is frozen solid the year around except for a few inches at the surface.

The Eskimos came to North America not more than a few thousand years ago, archaeologists believe. Although spread nearly halfway around the earth, they speak virtually the same language everywhere.

If they had been scattered for a longer period, it is believed, the language of different tribes would have begun to differentiate to a greater extent.

Banker Is Accused Of Merger "Bribe"

Witness Says New York Board Head Received $177,500 for Aid.

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—A jury trying four officers of the closed Bank of United States heard from a witness stand today that C. Stanley Mitchell, chairman of the board, received $177,500 in securities for his aid in merging his own bank, the Central Mercantile, into the Bank of United States.

The disclosure was drawn from Saul Singer, executive vice president of the bank, by Max D. Steuer, special prosecutor, who, step by step, traced the concern's growth from a capital of $4,000,000 in 1927, to $25,000,000 two years later.

Singer testified that the payment of the securities, which the prosecutor referred to as a "bribe," was covered by a secret contract. He stated the 5,000-odd stockholders of the Central Mercantile, one of several banks absorbed by the Bank of United States, were never notified of the contract with Mitchell, who became chairman of the board of the enlarged institution.

NEEDHAM EXPLAINS SCORING FOR BRIDGE

Tournament Manager Picks Match System for Big Tournament.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS.

Thursday, May 14, 2 p. m.—Pair contests, advanced and intermediate classes, both contract and auction.

Thursday, May 14, 8 p. m.—Auction team matches, advanced and intermediate classes.

Friday, May 15, 2 p. m.—Pair contests (final) advanced and intermediate classes, both contract and auction.

Friday, May 15, 8 p. m.—Contract team matches, advanced and intermediate classes.

Saturday, May 16, 2 p. m.—Auction team matches (final) advanced and intermediate classes.

Saturday, May 16, 8 p. m.—Contract team matches (final) advanced and intermediate classes.

The place—The New Shoreham Hotel.

The system known as match scoring has been announced by R. E. Needham, manager of the first annual tournament of Washington players, sponsored by The Washington Post, as the method to be employed in recording the points made by the players in the big event.

There are two distinct ways in which duplicate bridge games may be scored, one known as total point and the other as match scoring. They correspond to medal play and match play at golf. With total point scoring the pair or team which wins the most points is the winner, and it is possible to be outplayed and beaten on every hand but one, and by making a tremendous score on that one hand, win the contest. With match scoring the hand is the unit, and the pair that wins the most hands, regardless of the margin of victory, is the winner.

While there is some difference of opinion as to which system is the more desirable for team of four games, practically all players who understand the matter, indorse match scoring for pair games, and it is used at all the important tournaments. It is considered fairer for all players than the total point system and especially for those inexperienced in duplicate playing.

Helped Popularize Play.

Match scoring, which came into use four or five years ago, has been an important factor in popularizing duplicate play.

This method calls for a recognition of what one outstanding expert calls the "trick immaterial" and which becomes very material indeed in match scoring. When one is playing a heart contract with a love score and can make four-odd, but can not possibly make a small slam, whether he bids four or five-odd is rather immaterial in the ordinary bridge game. At match scoring duplicate, however, the fifth trick is just as important as the game going fourth trick, and may be the determining factor in winning the hand.

Similarly in bidding it is most important to select the right suit, and at auction honors are a vitally important consideration. Mr. Needham relates an instance where he lost an important championship because on a certain hand he and his partner scored 50 points at two no trump with three aces, whereas their opponents playing the same cards, scored 51 points, playing three diamonds with simple honors. On another occasion he won a match by making one no trump with easy aces for a score of 10 points; when his opponents made three odd at spades, with simple honors against them, for a net loss of three points on the hand.

Honors Are Important.

The ordinary player looks upon honors as largely a matter of luck—one has them, or does not—but not so the seasoned duplicate player. Honors play an important part in his bidding, and particularly in the matter of raising the partner or naming another suit.

Another important feature which will be interesting to the players in the forthcoming tournament, will be sacrifice bidding, particularly at contract. A nonvulnerable pair can afford to take a set of four tricks doubled for a loss of 600 points, to prevent an adverse no trump or major suit game by vulnerable opponents which would count at least 605 (105 for points and 500 for vulnerable game).

Thus it is that in the match scoring play importance attaches to the frequency with which a pair wins rather than the magnitude of the victory.

AID OF BISHOP CANNON NOW FACES CHARGE OF SENATE

quently can only be governed by State laws.

Hence, he says, the committee has no right to inquire into the manner in which he spent money to have Hoover men chosen as presidential electors in 1928.

Recalls Asheville Meeting.

In this connection, significance was attached to a statement which Chairman Nye made yesterday. He recalled the meeting that Bishop Cannon called in Asheville in July, 1928, a meeting at which the organized anti-Smith fight was launched. Quoting from a statement outlining the purposes of this meeting, Senator Nye said it was called to bring about an organization that would fight for the election of dry candidates for national and State offices and that would defeat the "wet, Tammany candidate" for President.

"Do you still say that you organized only for the presidential election," Nye asked Miss Burroughs.

"I decline to answer," she replied.

And that was her reply to a score or more other questions.

"Are you aware of the possible consequences that might follow upon your refusal to testify before this committee?" asked Senator Dill (Democrat), of Washington.

"I am," Miss Burroughs replied.

Others to Be Called.

Senator Dill then reminded her that she might be prosecuted for refusing to testify.

After Miss Burroughs left the stand, Bishop Cannon handed out a copy of the prepared statement she had submitted to the committee.

C. B. Stevens, of Charlottesville, Va., who had been called as a witness yesterday, was excused when Miss Burroughs declined to testify. However, he and other witnesses will be called at a later date.

There is considerable doubt as to just how the statute of limitations may affect Bishop Cannon. Under this, a person is safe from prosecution three years' after the alleged offense.

Time of Alleged Violation.

Bishop Cannon received the last contribution from Banker Jameson in September, 1928. If his alleged violation of the corrupt practices act were committed then, he will be free from prosecution this coming September—two months before Congress convenes. So long as Congress is away, it is impossible to remand the case to the district attorney.

Chairman Nye, however, contends that the statute of limitations in Bishop Cannon's case should not run out until next January, or possibly February.

Bishop Cannon's anti-Smith organization, he says, was supposed under the law to make a final financial report to Congress in January, 1929. A report was made at that time, he says, and still another was made in February.

The charge that Bishop Cannon has violated the corrupt practices act, he says, is based on these reports.

Election Law Funds Agency Is Advocated

(Associated Press.)

Creation of a permanent agency for enforcement of the Federal election laws relating to expenditures was advocated before the Senate campaign funds committee yesterday by Prof. Charles E. Marriam, of Chicago University.

"The law is too lax," Prof. Merriam told the committee, "and it is not really enforced. Some agency should be set up to govern election operations."

He preferred that Congress establish a regular campaign funds investigating committee rather than a separate elections commission. He believed the congressional committee would inspire greater public interest and attention.

However, Prof. Merriam disagreed with other experts before the committee who favor definite limitation of campaign expenditures. He argued no equitable system could be established which would afford all candidates a fair deal.

The Chicago professor described the practice of paying poll watchers as "most wasteful and useless and an easy road to outright bribery." He urged that party organizations reach an agreement to abandon the system.

Prof. Merriam deplored that few citizens contribute toward an election campaign, leaving the bulk of expenses to persons with interests at stake.

He was called by the committee in its inquiry into means of strengthening the Federal corrupt practices act. Chairman Nye announced that further hearings would be held next fall.

FINAL 1931 ACADEMY PROGRAM IS LISTED

Last Week's Exercises Will Begin Friday, May 29, at Annapolis.

Annapolis, Md., May 7 (A.P.).—June week, that period of festivities at the Naval Academy which culminates with the graduation of the first class and their entry into active service of the sea forces, is to start on Friday, May 29, according to the program given out by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent.

The program stretches over a seven-day period, terminating with graduation Thursday, June 4.

Saturday, May 30, will be a complete holiday. At 11:45 a. m., the academy's football stadium will be dedicated in honor to the late Col. Robert Means Thompson, a graduate of the Naval Academy and one of the institution's greatest benefactors. At 1 p. m. the graduates in reunion will assemble at the Officers Club for lunch. These occasions are among the most enthusiastic of the year.

More Drills on Program.

More drills will mark the morning of June 3. At 10:30 a. m., a physical drill will be held on Worden Field. At 2 p. m. the graduating class will rehearse graduating exercises. This will be followed by a band concert at 3:30 p. m. and then the final dress parade at 5 p. m., when all prizes and awards will be presented. The second class will remain in Annapolis for a summer course in aviation. The third and fourth classes will the following day embark, for the annual graduates will go on a month's leave prior to reporting to their respective ships.

Bandits Rob Third New Orleans Bank

Holdup Men Force Clerks to Lie on Floor; Loss Not Counted.

New Orleans, La., May 7 (A.P.).—Bandits held up the Mid-City branch of the Hibernia Bank & Trust Co. on Canal street at 2:15 p. m. today.

Four men came into the bank and ordered all clerks and depositors to lie face down on the floor. They took an undetermined amount of money an escaped in an automobile. Later, officials said the loss was several thousand dollars.

The four bandits were unmasked. One carried a sawed-off shotgun and the other three revolvers. As they started to leave, they found the front door had slammed and become locked. One of the bandits crashed the plate glass with the butt of his revolver and the four climbed through the opening and escaped.

Today's robbery was the third bank holdup here recently. Approximately $15,000 was stolen in two raids in one day on branches of the Canal Bank & Trust Co.

WITNESS ARRESTED AT SLAYING TRIAL

Friend of Accused Is Held as Murder Accomplice in "Honor" Killing.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., May 7.—Arrest of Russell Eppard, friend of Charles Rufus Lam, 24, and a defense witness, marked the first day of Lam's trial today in Rockingham Circuit Court on a charge of first degree murder.

Eppard was arrested in the courthouse lobby while the trial of Lam was in progress. He is charged with being an accessory in the fatal shooting of Robert Davis, 59, Lam's neighbor and father of nine children, on April 9. The tragedy occurred near Furnace, in the Blue Ridge foothills of Northeast Rockingham.

The State rested late this afternoon. The first defense witnesses gave testimony in keeping with Lam's plea that he killed Davis to protect the honor of his 15-year-old sister. The sister, Pauline, on the witness stand late in the day, told of advances made by Davis, then a widower of two months.

Several State witnesses testified Lam declared he deserted from the Coast Artillery at Fort Monroe six months ago to "get Davis," and that he "got" his man the night of his twenty-fourth birthday. Lam told Eppard he had killed Davis in the yard of the Davis home and the two went to a store nearby to summon officers.

Four children of the slain man and members of the Lam family testified there was no ill feeling between the two families. There were no witnesses to the shooting, so far as has been developed.

Testimony indicated that Rufus had been drinking the night of the shooting.

Commonwealth's Attorney D. Wampler Earman asked for the death penalty in his opening statement. He scouted the defense theory that Lam was justified in the shooting and that he shot in self-defense when Davis made a move as if to draw a weapon. Davis was unarmed, it was pointed out. The jury was selected in half an hour. Fourteen veniremen were excused because they held religious scruples against capital punishment.

DEALERS ABANDON SHORT TON MEASURE

acquiescence of the merchants, however, the question dissolves merely to the legality of selling less than a ton of coal, which the law permits.

Whatever be the outcome of the controversy, the matter in all probability will be put before Congress next winter so that the law may be clarified.

In a lengthy statement, Mr. Lansburgh explained that the 2,000-pound unit had been adopted to meet the competition of coal merchants in nearby Maryland and Virginia. A personal investigation, he said, has convinced him that with the reduction of weight there was a corresponding cut in prices.

"The reason that this has been misunderstood is because there has been an actual increase in price on certain small sizes of anthracite coal at the mines, which would make a comparison between this year's and last year's bills higher on these small sizes of coal," he said.

"From my personal investigation I am convinced that the members of the coal section of the Merchants & Manufacturers' Association have not wilfully evaded any existing law, that they are thoroughly within their rights and, further, that they in no wise imposed or attempted to impose upon the public. They welcome submission of the question to the proper tribunal and are confident of the outcome."

ON THE WRONG TRACK.

A sample of the misinformation furnished to the International Chamber of Commerce by spokesmen of foreign interests is the following, uttered by Dr. Henry Bell, a London banker:

> America is a magnificent host, but a mighty poor customer. When Britain was a creditor nation she was willing to accept goods in payment of debts, but now that Britain owes America $150,000,000 annually America is making it as hard as possible for her to pay.

In 1914 the United States bought 8 per cent of the goods sold by the entire world. In 1929 the United States bought 12½ per cent of the world total. In 1930 the percentage dropped to 9½, but the volume of imports was nearly as large as in the preceding year. In addition to purchases of foreign goods, American tourists spent $800,000,000 in foreign countries during 1929.

This year the United States is buying foreign goods at a rate in excess of that of 1930. American purchases are expected to be about 10½ or 11 per cent of the total purchases of the world.

The London banker complains that the United States is a "mighty poor customer," alluding to the tariff. Yet the United States is the best customer in the world, and its great consumption of the world's goods helps to sustain all countries.

Most of the goods purchased by the United States are admitted free of duty. The tariff has no bearing whatever upon the great bulk of goods sold to this country.

Some of the wares which Britain would like to sell to the United States are subjected to a duty that protects American industry and labor against the cheaper labor of Britain. Dr. Bell seems to be entirely willing to see American standards of living sink to the British level, on the theory that Britain somehow would be benefited.

The United States is not "making it as hard as possible for Britain to pay her debts." On the contrary, the United States has written off a large part of that debt and reduced the interest rate. No British taxpayer pays a cent on account of Britain's debt to the United States. The budget of the chancellor of the exchequer may be scanned in vain to discover any levy of taxes on account of the debt. Britain collects from her debtors more than she pays to the United States.

Great Britain is in the grip of the dole system largely because of her free trade policy. The country must put into effect a protective tariff or be swamped by foreign goods. Britain, instead of asking the United States to adopt the free-trade policy, which has helped to ruin British industry and pauperize British labor, should recognize the demonstrated advantage of protecting industry and labor by a reasonable tariff that would give British industry and labor a fighting chance.

Nothing is to be gained by Britain or any other country by dragging down the standard of living in the United States. Let them lift themselves up by encouraging home industry, and by paying living wages. Their prosperity will enlarge their consuming capacity, and the United States will find a better market than it finds at present. British free trade, accompanied by the prostration of British industry, does not benefit the United States. This country would be glad to see a prosperous England, and would not be afraid that a tariff would shut out American goods desired by the British public.

Nearly every foreign speaker at the present conference has clung to the Old World theory of low wages, and all of them advocate a change of American policy as affecting the tariff and war debts. Their idea seems to be that a pooling of misery and poverty would solve the world's difficulties. They would grade labor downward toward the starvation level. The American economic theory runs contrary to the European theory as voiced by delegates to the conference. There is no reconciling these antagonistic theories. The foreign spokesmen waste their breath when they ask America to abolish the tariff, drive down wages, and subsidize other nations by assuming their debts.

WET PARTY VAGARIES.

The most impracticable proposal yet suggested to rescue the United States from prohibition is a third party, sponsored by war veterans and labor organizations. For many years the American Federation of Labor has remained aloof from partisan politics, in the belief that its purposes could best be achieved if its members functioned freely in the established political parties. Veterans' organizations have taken somewhat the same attitude. It must therefore be shocking to the rank and file of members in both organizations to find that Gen. John J. Hartnett, chairman of the veterans' clearing house, has initiated a movement for organization of a wet party. Gen. Hartnett has suggested to Matthew Woll, vice president of the Federation of Labor, that workingmen's organizations join in the movement. A conference for further discussion of the project is said to be in the offing.

There seems to be no question that the majority in both organizations are opposed to the eighteenth amendment. Yet neither the Federation of Labor nor the many veterans' associations were organized for the promotion of the wet cause. They have specific purposes and functions of their own. When they divert their attention to a controversial issue which lies outside of their respective fields of activity they weaken the prestige of their organizations.

In view of the prodigious issues facing labor, how can organizations of workingmen justify this diversion of effort to a complicated squabble over beer? It is difficult indeed to see why leaders of veterans' organizations want to take upon themselves the stigma of antiprohibition agencies. Both groups are stepping beneath the dignity with which they have heretofore been associated in the public mind when they join the ranks of wet propagandists.

But to join in a new political party for this purpose—that would be nothing less than paranoia. A wet party could make no showing for itself, but only draw straggling wet votes from the established parties and thus defeat its own purpose. It is inconceivable that any one with any political experience would initiate such a rash venture.

CHINA AND OPIUM.

China, with more kinds of trouble on hand than she can manage, is once more confronted with a new phase of a very old problem—the opium question. For a hundred years or more China has fought the opium traffic. Today a concerted effort by both native and foreign elements is being made to induce her to bring production and distribution on opium under government control; in brief, to establish an opium monopoly. It is even reported that representatives of the League of Nations in the Orient are among those who are urging such procedure.

Stanch friends of China, who for many years have been active in support of the nation's opposition to the returning cultivation of the poppy, are in arms against the pressure that is being brought to bear upon officials to reap a revenue from opium that would amount to more than $50,000,000 a year. It would be secured through the encouragement of the vice and degradation of the people. That some European powers sell smoking opium to their colonies is no excuse for China taking a backward step after the struggle that has been made.

Opium smoking cuts down the earning capacity of a man 50 per cent, and once he becomes a confirmed addict the major portion of even his reduced income is spent for opium. The establishment of a government monopoly would give legalized sanction to smoking, and would result in the greatly extended use of opium immediately. A monopoly in the hands of a nation-wide ramification of grasping officials would be most difficult to uproot. The revenues to the nation would be poor compensation for the physical and moral degeneration of the Chinese people.

MILWAUKEE'S OPEN SECRET.

Why is the City of Milwaukee avoided by crooks? Why are there no racketeers and gang murders there? It is simply because Milwaukee is a city that has an independent police force, organized to protect life and property, and free from interference by politicians. The chief of police is appointed by the mayor, but the mayor can not remove him. The chief picks his own force for efficiency, and political influence neither gets them jobs nor is able to have them dimissed. The city has had but two chiefs of police in 46 years.

Milwaukee has no laws against crime and criminals that are very different from those of other cities. The secret of Milwaukee's fine record lies in the fact that the laws are enforced fearlessly and promptly. Gangs are not allowed to form. Combinations in crime are broken up at the start. There are no professional murderers in Milwaukee. It is a city of 700,000 population, and there were only nine murders there last year, all cleared up by the police, and not one of them a gang murder. There has only been one unpunished murder in the city in ten years. Holdups and burglaries are rare in comparison with other large cities.

A check-up recently made by William G. Shepherd shows something of the advantage such a reputation means not only to the peace and safety of residents, but in dollars and cents. In the last ten years the insurance rates for burglary and theft in New York, New Orleans and Chicago have increased 10 per cent; in Los Angeles 26 per cent, and in Detroit 32 per cent. As opposed to this record reflecting crime increase, the rates in Milwaukee have been reduced 25 per cent.

SENATOR LEWIS' PLAN.

Chicago's brilliant senator, James Hamilton Lewis, has a simple plan to save the United States from "communism and anarchy and the loss of the soul of America." It is, in a word, to furnish to foreign governments from overabundant American stocks the supplies they need, rather than lending them any more cash.

England could take some of our wheat and pay us in coal, but we have more Newcastles than Great Britain. China, too, could use a lot of wheat, if it were only rice. Cuba would be glad to absorb more shoes and canned goods, if we could arrange to double consumption of her sugar. Russia would take more machinery to help cripple American manufacturers, if first she could dump upon us her oil, lumber, wheat and minerals. France would trade us some rare old beverages from her bursting cellars for various and sundry practical things, but there are obstacles in the way.

Barter is difficult on an international scale, and probably that is one of the reasons why money was invented. Senator Lewis' alternative idea seems to be that taking notes for surplus products is preferable to lending money in the hope that the money would be spent here to take up excess production. He rather fears we wouldn't get the money back, and if the notes for produce are not paid, well, we can't sell it anyhow. So, give them time on what we don't want.

Senator Lewis' program includes eliminating $1,000,000,000 deficit hereafter by cutting off and cutting away superfluous Government machinery and political bureaus. Thus easily are national ills shot away by the statesman who has been studying direct methods of accomplishment in Chicago.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., May 7.—Columbia University has taken a leading position in relation to intercollegate athletics. The old system so long in existence has resulted from the conception that such sports were entirely voluntary, and essentially the outside and independent activities of students with which the school had only remote connection. Not the faculty, but the students and alumni committee have been in control. This has led to abuses both of commercialism and professionalism. This era of irresponsibility is passing.

By squarely recognizing that such athletics are a part of the official student activities and putting them in charge of the faculty under the trustees a unified control has been secured and the chance for abuses has been much reduced. In supporting these activities out of the college treasury instead of out of gate receipts the entire responsibility for them has been assumed by the university.

Physical culture and competitive team sports are officially recognized as legitimate parts of the educational courses. This will give a new standing and dignity to athletics. The university will no longer appear as an adjunct of the football squad. The training of the body and the mind will be coordinated and each stand in its proper relation.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

From the Topeka Capital.

University of Chicago's Dramatic Association scored a big hit the other night before a crowded and enthusiastic house. The play was "Uncle Tom's Cabin." According to column-long dramatic notices in the Chicago papers the performance was a thriller, and this was partly because the play was given without the cuts that for many years have somewhat mutilated it. The students gave it "in old-time sincerity, even having members of the cast sing ballads between acts and sell photographs through the audience." To show with what dignity the revival was staged, bloodhounds were omitted.

Recalling the unparalleled reign of Mrs. Stowe's play over a period of three full generations the Chicago News digs up some statistics of this remarkable novel and play. If people nowadays laugh at the naivete of their grandparents in weeping over the sorrows of Little Eva and Uncle Tom, the News reminds them that "in the 1850s the literary nobles and titled aristocrats of both London and Paris wept even louder at the play."

Before "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was dramatized it was the world's best seller before that term became a literary shibboleth. In an astonishingly brief time after its publication England and her colonies alone had bought 1,500,000 copies. It was reprinted in all languages of the western world, in this respect surpassed only by Charles M. Sheldon's "In His Steps." A biographer of Henry Ward Beecher a year or two ago made sport of his sister, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and her book, but Macaulay declared it "the most valuable addition that America has made to English literature." It is doubtful whether anybody reads it today.

In blase New York "Uncle Tom's Cabin" ran to packed houses in two theaters simultaneously in 1852, in one of them for a run of 100 performances, an American record at the time. At the same time it was running in two theaters in London and was "the rage of fashionable Paris." Press critics on two continents hailed its success as "without a parallel in world history."

Last year is said to have been the first since 1852, a period of 79 years, that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was not produced somewhere in the United States, but in its eightieth year the students of drama at the University of Chicago have staged its revival. If there is a present popular hunger for melodrama, it will probably fill the bill, as it did for three earlier generations. No doubt, it never was a great play, and so far as we know no great histrionic name was ever connected with its roles. Great actors and actresses saw nothing in it and gave it the go-by. But "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was the greatest of dramas, from the viewpoint of the box office.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE CONVICT.

He sat within the dock and stared
As if he neither knew nor cared
What words were said; nor truth nor lie
Could cause the flicker of his eye.
Unmoved he seemed as are the dead
By what his fellow creatures said.

I watched him through the days that passed
And heard him sentenced at the last,
And saw him turn upon his heel
And stretch his wrist to take the steel;
But still indifferent was he
To all that living people see.

Some ten years later walking by
His prison cell I caught his eye
And stopped to talk; his pale gray face
Of joy or sorrow showed no trace.
Convict for life, the hours dragged by Nor mattered fair or stormy sky.

"Indifferent still," said I, and he Looked calmly through the bars at me,
And slowly spoke: "Yes! friend and foe,
The seasons as they come and go
Are nothing now. This bitter bed
Is just the same as being dead."

All the World of Knavery Retires to Rest When the Sun Comes Up.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN you are told that rogues robbed the American people of twelve billion dollars last year, do you dismiss the matter with an indifferent shrug and assure yourself that it doesn't affect you?

You are mistaken. It does affect you. You pay for it, as you pay for everything. It is added to the price of things you consume.

As Government waste, corporation taxes, fire losses and the great salaries paid to insurance and industrial executives eventually come out of your pocket, so you pay in the end every dollar collected by dishonest promoters and racketeers.

Do you know why racketeers thrive? Because of the public indifference that enables them to operate in secret.

"Men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil." It is darkness that enables these rogues to prosper, which means that the only way to destroy them is by means of publicity.

The moment they and their works are exposed, that moment their power for evil is gone.

The victims or racketeers pay tribute in secret because they dread injury and know not where to appeal for protection. In some instances they dare not appeal to police or officials, for these are in league with the racketeers and share in the spoils.

Those who are robbed by loan sharks and those victimized by sellers of worthless stock are equally helpless. Nowhere can they find a sympathetic ear or a champion to redress their wrongs.

When the law fails, there is no hope except in courageous and patriotic citizens.

Isn't it time for the decent men in each community to organize a committee to which helpless citizens can appeal?

It need not be a secret committee. Let it do its work openly and bravely, for the white light of publicity is the best weapon it can find.

There isn't a graft in America that can survive exposure.

Once the victimized thousands know where to find a partisan both courageous and honorable, they will provide the evidence to make racketeering unprofitable.

Directly or indirectly, the people will pay vast tribute to rogues until the bravest and best of them combine to provide the protection an indifferent or disloyal officialdom will not provide.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Mr. Barnes Explains.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It seems that Mr. Julius H. Barnes, who caused such a flurry last week by calling for tariff changes to help American foreign trade, is strongly opposed to action at the next session of Congress. What he meant, he has now explained to the International Chamber of Commerce meeting, was that gradual adjustments, either up or down, should be made through the Tariff Commission. These would not have "the unsettling effects that accompany a general overhauling by Congress."

So the Democrats and Insurgents who hailed Mr. Barnes as a convert to their cause rejoiced too soon. Like most business men, he is not willing to have Congress meddle with the tariff. It is the Tariff Commission's task to recommend any needed changes. And, by the way, Mr. Barnes has not yet stated what particular changes he has in mind. It would be interesting to know which tariff schedules, in his opinion, are operating to the disadvantage of this country's foreign trade.

Congressmen-at-Large.

Topeka Capital.

Missouri's entire delegation of thirteen congressmen will be elected at large next year, as will those of many if not a majority of all the 30 States whose representation was changed by the census. Kansas can congratulate itself not only on redistricting but on the fair and decent reapportionment under the Rees bill. Kansas will be fully represented by districts.

One of the annoyances of election of Congress delegations by the State at large is in the loss of political power, and not only in the matter of patronage. Congressmen-at-large lack general influence just as they do influence in patronage with an administration, since it is certain that most of them can not expect to come back, after the State is reapportioned.

Interpretation.

Los Angeles Times.

"Roosevelt sure of victory with Smith's support," says a title. Probably means "with support of the Smiths."

To Keep Wages Up.

New York Herald Tribune.

The determination of the Federal Administration to resist any general reduction of wage schedules has been amply attested in recent remarks on the subject by President Hoover and Secretary Doak of the Labor Department. Still, it is refreshing to have Secretary Mellon reaffirm his attitude, as he has in his speech to the bankers who are delegates to the convention of the International Chamber of Commerce. As usual, Secretary Mellon puts the case in a nutshell when he says that "the all-important factor is purchasing power" and that "the present is no time to undertake drastic and doubtful experiments which may conceivably result in breaking down the standard of living to which we have become accustomed."

On the Job.

Minneapolis Journal.

And now it is William N. Doak, Secretary of Labor, that feels the wrath of the chronic critics of the Hoover administration. In Secretary Doak the United States at least has at the head of the Labor Department a man with the grit and energy to deport by wholesale bootlegged aliens, alien criminals and alien plotters against the American Government. More than a hundred thousands undesirables are to go, if the Secretary continues to have his way.

The move is manifestly in the interests of American labor, of American law observance and of American domestic tranquillity. But instead of being grateful, politicians and publicists who customarily raise their voices in professed friendship for American labor hasten to denounce Mr. Doak.

Prognostication.

Atlanta Constitution.

There is talk of Senator Capper to tail the Hoover ticket next year. From all signs in sight, it is going to need the strongest capper it can get.

With the Treasury Depleted?

Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Kansas editor wants Mr. Hoover to smile more. What about?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Independent Disgusted With Renegade Republicans Who Attack Hoover. Tammany Will Dominate Democracy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Claiming to be Republicans of some sort, yet unwilling to continue an able and distinguished Republican in the White House in the person of President Hoover, certain self-styled progressives are making themselves offensive to independent voters by their attacks upon the President and in trying to create public sentiment inimical to him.

The attitude of these politicians, who, in a political sense, are traitors, occasions no surprise to close observers of the present situation. Ambitious to be known as leaders, though with one or two exceptions, they are of mediocre caliber, their frequent sputtering in criticism of the President disgusts even their own following.

Throughout all this abuse President Hoover has maintained a degree of dignity and self-respect which has won for him confidence and admiration of the people to an extent far beyond the comprehension, seemingly, of the coterie that opposes him. In a word, our worthy and honored President is beloved now more than ever for the enemies he has made.

The Tammany element which at present controls the Democratic party, is determined to capture the Presidency in 1932, and nothing will be left undone to accomplish this purpose. What the result would be to the country at large in such an event can better be imagined than described. Under present conditions, the Democratic party as a party will be unable to nominate a candidate who will be free from Tammany influence, if not complete domination.

Confronted with this situation, millions of voters will look to Herbert Hoover as the one man to lead the Nation in all that pertains to the best interests of the people, socially, politically and industrially. It is because Mr. Hoover has these high qualities of leadership that political enemies are now doing their utmost to discredit him. But their efforts will be in vain. INDEPENDENT.

Writer Predicts That Depression Will Become More Severe Unless Silver Is Stabilized.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will you permit the writer to say that he is getting a whole lot of satisfaction these days out of the international conference now being held in this city one purpose of which is the stabilization of silver throughout the world which, he pointed out more than three years ago, was the basic cause of the world-wide business depression. At that time none of our alleged statesmen or so-called economists made even the slightest reference to it as the cause of the depression, but talked about childish palliatives while the gold standard cancer was eating away the vitals of the business world. Even Congress was called into special session to pass a tariff bill, already too high, as the cure of domestic internal ills, when more than a billion people, users of silver in China, India, Mexico and South America, did not have the gold to buy our products with. It did not matter to them whether the United States had a prohibitive tariff or one for revenue only. Not one of these statesmen had the remotest idea of the cause of the depression—the worst since 1873 when silver was demonetized—and, with few exceptions, from the top down they have exhibited an ignorance of the most vital question before the world today, namely, money.

Whether the international conference now in session will pass a resolution calling a world-wide conference on the stabilization of silver remains to be seen, but the writer predicts that if it does not, world-wide business conditions will become worse. The only solution of the question is an agreement between the nations of the earth for a monetary equilibrium between gold and silver, whether the ratio be 14, 16 or 20 to 1.

All-Night Parking a Nuisance and Danger—Streets Should Not Be Free Garages.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In yesterday's Post Commissioner Crosby is quoted as of the opinion that all night parking is here to stay, as there are thousands of persons who can barely afford to own automobiles, let alone face the cost of putting their machines in garages."

Are our streets to be forever occupied and rendered dangerous for the entire motoring public simply for the accomodation of the comparatively small number who prefer to keep their cars at the curb day and night, many cars remaining in one spot for days, even weeks at a time without being used?

Itis difficult enough already to drive between the two lines of parked cars, occupying from one-third to one-half the space between curbs, and with cars increasing in number from day to day, trucks and vans larger and larger, conditions are rapidly becoming worse. The longer proper regulation is postponed the greater will be the difficulty and hardship of enforcement.

Cities as large and larger than Washington have placed a ban on all-night parking, and there is no reason why it should be tolerated here.

LIBRARIES IN BAD TIMES.

The American Library Association calls attention to the effects of financial depression on public libraries. There is an increase in business at the same time that there is a decrease in income, according to the New York Times. Some libraries have suffered serious losses, it is reported, because of bank failures. But throughout the country as a whole there has been a reduction in budgets because of the general economic situation. Meanwhile "the libraries are crowded as never before."

BRIAND'S CANDIDACY OCCUPIES DEPUTIES

Paris Police Rout Students Who Protest Against Race of Foreign Minister.

Paris, May 7 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Briand's candidacy for the presidency of the French Republic next week, dominated debate in the Chamber of Deputies today on foreign policies.

During the evening a group of monarchist students gathered in the Latin quarter and started for the chamber to stage a demonstration against the foreign minister. They were charged three times by police, who finally dispersed them half a mile from their meeting place.

Although his chances for the presidency depend to a great extent on the outcome of the debate on foreign affairs, M. Briand took no important part in today's session. Only once, in a brief reply to criticism by a deputy did he give any hint of what he will say tomorrow in defense of his policies.

"France will not stand alone at Geneva," he said, referring to the deputy's attack on the projected Austro-German customs accord.

M. Briand, developing his own plan for European economic union, has consulted several nations through the French embassies with the idea of arranging a common basis for economic agreement between industrial and agricultural states. Those close to him say he believes his idea will progress more rapidly now since announcement of the Austro-German union.

At the mention of his name by Deputy Nogaro, who attacked the Austro-German accord, Moderates and Radicals in the House applauded loudly, but the Conservatives and some of the other groups circulated the name of Paul Doumer, president of the senate to offset Briand's presidential boom.

Nogaro said France can not look upon the arrangement between Austria and Germany as purely an economic move, asserting that Austrian industrialists have said the proposed union would open no new markets for Austria, but would increase unemployment in Vienna.

Debate will continue tomorrow and the vote may be reached tomorrow night.

Storms Beat Back Japanese Aviator

Light Plane Attempting to Cross Pacific Turns Back to Nemuro.

Nemuro, Japan, May 7 (A.P.).—Fierce storms beat back the light seaplane of Seiji Yoshihara to this port today after he had taken off for Murotan Bay in the volcanic Kurile Islands, on the third hop of his flight of 6,268 miles from Tokyo to San Francisco.

The young Japanese, with an extremely hazardous air journey before him across the Bering Sea and North Pacific Ocean, has been held here since Tuesday.

With only 665 miles flown from Tokyo, Yoshihara must use the utmost skill in making the eighteen or more flights before San Francisco is reached. Fog and gale are his chief obstacles. He planned to reach San Francisco in 26 days.

Funeral Services Held For Mrs. Whitelaw Reid

Ambassador and Mrs. Walter E. Edge and Lord Tyrrell, the British ambassador, were among the distinguished personages who attended. The body is to be sent to New York for burial.

PROGRAM IS AGREED ON FOKKER PLANES

Monday when Assistant Secretary Young announced temporary withdrawal from passenger service of 35 of the two types of aircraft.

Conferring with Assistant Secretary Young yesterday were J. N. Schoonmaker, jr., president of General Aviation Corporation and Fokker Aircraft Corporation, a subsidiary; Col. Thurman Bane, of American Airways, Inc., and representing the Air Transport operators affected, and Fokker, designer of the planes.

Later officials of the Fokker Corporation said in a formal statement that "many of the Fokker F-10 planes affected by the department's drastic maintenance order of Monday" would be back in the air, carrying passengers, as soon as Department of Commerce men had inspected them.

Experts from the Fokker plant, they added, have already been sent to the maintenance points of the lines affected, and "they expect to complete their work on the ships within a very few working hours."

Mr. Fokker said that the "modification of the aileron design" referred to by Mr. Young "represented the mere bringing up to date of a minor element in the control system of these two-year-old ships."

"This is the only change required," he added. "We have modified the ailerons in much the same way on old ships when they came into the factory for service. In this instance the work will be done in the field. The change makes the aileron control operate more easily. It is little more than a counter-balance."

Mrs. Manning Is Married to H. K. Hickey

Little Daughter Is Only Attendant of Bride at Wedding.

In the presence of members of the two families and a few intimate friends, the marriage of Mrs. Edythe Howard Manning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beale Richardson Howard to Mr. Harry Kendall Hickey took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, 3001 Forty-fourth street.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock, with the Rev. C. J. Dacey officiating. Easter lilies with palms and ferns formed an effective background for the improvised altar in the drawing room.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in pink lace. Fashioned with a long skirt with flounces which formed three tiers in front and two in the back, the frock had a deep bertha, forming the sleeves to the elbow. She wore a hat of rough straw to match the gown and carried a corsage of gardenias.

Little Mary Adams Manning was her mother's attendant. She wore a frock of white organdie made over flesh color, a pink sash marking the normal waistline. As a finishing touch to the quaint costume, she carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

Mr. Edward M. Tierney, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

At the reception which followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Howard received with Mr. Hickey and his bride, Mrs. Howard wearing a gown of beige lace, with a hat to match, and a corsage of orchids.

On their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hickey will reside in Washington.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John Terry Remey, brother-in-law and sister of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Chambers, of Newton, Pa.; Mrs. Charles Manning and Mr. and Mrs. Norwin Bean, of Manchester, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. William Hickey, of Buffalo, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Tickets for the pilgrimage given by the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities on Tuesday may only be obtained from members of the committee, and must be procured in advance of the day of the trip, as the special parlor cars, with every comfort and convenience for the party, are especially provided. The committee is composed of Mrs. S. M. Meek, chairman; Mrs. Virgil Jackson, Mrs. John Franklin Little, Mrs. Nelson P. Webster and Miss E. Bertha Chinn, treasurer.

Send Her Flowers

THE tenth of May—the second Sunday in the month—has been dedicated to "The Memory of the Best Mother in the World" . . . your mother . . . to be observed through some gesture of kindness, visit, letter, gift or tribute.

The flower your mother loves best of all is the gift you should send—a bouquet of sweet peas, a pot of glowing, colorful tulips, a gorgeous rose plant, a bouquet of roses, or a basket of old-fashioned posies. These are favorites with mother. But, regardless of the kind of flower with which to do mother special honor . . . when brought into her presence, the perfumed air will remind her sweetly that you still love her.

If you cannot be where mother is on May 10th, solicit our aid . . . we will see that your floral expression of love and remembrance will be delivered promptly by our Winged Mercury . . . The Telegraph.

We are equipped to telegraph your flower order direct from our main store, 1212 F Street N.W.

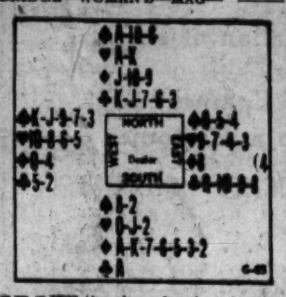
WORK ON BRIDGE

BRIDGE—WOMAN'S—MAG—



WITH the above hand at Auction Bridge, South would bid one Diamond, West would pass, and North would call one No Trump. South might rebid his Diamonds, but North undoubtedly would play the hand at a No Trump.

This hand recently decided a Contract tournament at a New York club. It was the concluding deal of the play-off of a tie and the contesting pairs had made identical scores on the three which preceded; so this hand would decide the vent unless it produced another tie.

The bidding was the same at both tables. Both Souths bid three Diamonds, both Wests passed, and both Norths, with four high-card tricks and supports in Diamonds, deliberated whether to call six Diamonds or six No Trumps, the 90-point advantage which would result from making the No Trump contract induced both Norths to bid six No Trumps. Neither South ventured the grand slam in Diamonds which would have been a show-down with the cards as they were.

At both tables East led the Ten of Clubs—the correct lead from a suit headed by Queen-Ten-Nine—and of course South's Ace won the trick. At Table A, Declarer realized that leading South's Ace and King of Diamonds would result in a blocked suit even if the Queen dropped—and South had no reentry. So South led a high Diamond to trick 2 to catch a singleton Queen in case either adversary had that holding; and to trick 3 a low Diamond, permitting West's Queen to win. The Diamonds now were unblocked, and Declarer won six tricks in that suit, three in Hearts, two in Clubs and one in Spades—fulfilling his small-slam contract.

The North at Table B played the hand quite differently. After dummy's Ace of Clubs took the opening trick, he won two hearts in the North hand and then led the Jack of Diamonds, covering with dummy's King. On dummy's Queen of Hearts he discarded the blocking Diamond from the North hand; and after that it was easy to win six tricks in Diamonds, one in Spades and one in Clubs—one over the contract. It gained only 50 points, but nevertheless won a well-earned match.

Fashion Interprets the Mode

A wholly desirable and chic summer tennis ensemble of white tussor and blue angora. (A Dah-ray design.)

New York, May 7.

IT'S all very well to talk about belts being entirely a matter of the individual figure and to say that belts ban't be any more the general style one season than they can another because a woman can or can not wear them, and that's that. Yes, my dear, it's all very well to say it, and to a certain extent it's true. If you're short and, well, rounded, it's certainly wisest to choose unbelted models. You know without my telling you that wearing a belt would only serve to accent your lack of height by cutting the line of your figure. But the fact remains, nevertheless, that contrasting belts for all kinds of attire, including evening wear, are more in vogue this season than they have been for a long time, and if your figure must be unbelted you have fewer models to choose from than the woman who can safely wear them.

Belts are of the greatest variety and originality, and they always contrast with the frock they're worn on—either in color or in material. I've seen very few self fabric belts and the few I have seen have always employed some vivid or odd buckle—or had the belt itself made in such a way—twisted, pleated, braided, &c.—that the belt looked like a different material from the frock.

Belts are made of almost everything this year—including wood, straw and ordinary cord! (You'll recognize the influence of the French Colonial Exposition there.) Of course, the wood is in the form of plaques or flat beads strung on elastic, and the straw is woven, and the cord braided or twisted into awfully chic belts. Crushed black patent leather belts were a feature of Patou's collection—they appeared on everything—honestly, even on evening gowns I saw a patent leather belt in yellow on a green organdie evening gown! And white patent leather actually on a black and white printed chiffon.

Endless variety of costume at very little cost is Miladi's 1931 style slogan. And the way she achieves this very desirable end is to have numerour accessories to one costume that are interchangeable—and chief among these accessories is the blouse! Oo-oh, the blouses I have seen this year are adorable! 'N' the prices charged for them would stagger any plump bank account unless you knew the way to make the very same blouses yourself. Wouldn't you just have a blouse designed by the justly famous Maison Heim—even if you had to pay millyuns of francs for it? And won't you just rush your stamped, self-addressed envelope off to the Dare department of The Washington Post when I tell you that in the leaflet prepared for you this week I show you just how to make an exact copy of the blouse I bought from the Heim collection? And lots of other blouses too?

* * * *

I never have liked the summer tennis frocks I've seen, so I set right to work one day and designed one that had all the desirable features I had thought of—and none of the undesirable ones! Isn't it tricky, though? I had the dress made of white tussor and the jacket of blue angora. That front-and-back decolletage has straps that just can not slip, no matter how high the swing. And lest miladi take a chill after her exertions this jacket, with its odd revers, buttons across snugly. The blue and yellow silk elastic belt has no buckle.

* * * *

Elegance in afternoon attire! Of course you strive for it. And it's discussed in the weekly Dare fashion letter in next Sunday's Washington Post.

Au Revoir.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Unnecessary Misery.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am a widower, having lost my wife nine years ago. I have two children. There is a married woman I love dearly who also has two children. She does not love her husband, as he does not appreciate anything she might do or does for him. She works at my office and when she goes home she cooks the supper for the family. He does not want her to go anywhere. She is deserving of everything. I enjoy her company very much. She means everything to me, Mrs. MacDonald. But I am sure she would not leave her children. She is so proud she would not let people talk about her or about my children. She loves my children and I love hers. He has made this woman so unhappy and it is breaking my heart. I can't sleep nights thinking the whole thing over and over again. I have told her that I love her after a long time knowing her and she has told me that she loves me also. At home he is always barking from the time he gets home until he goes to bed. It is all so terrible and she is so sad. She can't go here or she can't go there, just work, work, work—that is all for her. He does not know that I love his wife. But I do really love this woman. She is so fine. Here is a fine love and understanding. Tell one that is so broken hearted what to do.

BROKEN HEARTED.

Why all the agonizing? If the husband is insufferable, the wife can step across the State line and divorce him. And in that State the children are awarded the mother in all cases except where moral unfitness has been proved. The husband, if he cared to fight the action, could, of course, name you if your attitude had justified such procedure. But the husband who barks his thanks for wifely devotion is usually quite ready to be freed of the holy bonds and of his children also. Such men belong in lodging houses and not in homes of their own which their meek wives work to provide. The woman should have divorced him long ago regardless of you or any one else. Nature never intended that woman should bear children, support man, keep up the shelter, and be barked at in return. The result is that such women become wrecks.

In a more enlightened age barking husbands living upon the earnings of their wives will not be regarded in quite the light that they are regarded now. And such men will be deemed unfit for parenthood. This man is, and his wife knows it, and for that reason she should leave him.

If, of course, she is merely too weak to claim her rights, because her friends might wonder, then she is too weak for life anyway and will always be the browbeaten victim of circumstances. It is all up to her. Have her consult an attorney of standing and he will advise her as to time of residence required across the State line. And leave the neighbors and their opinions out of the considerations. Children deserve a decent and serene home life. And barking brutes who can not even support their offspring deserve nothing.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF May 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 3 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 10:50 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 2:45 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The planetary aspects of May 8 indicate a day of activity during which much that is worth while can be accomplished. It is a propitious occasion for the initiation of new enterprise, or for lopping off dead lumber and preparing for future uncluttered growth and development.

A child born on this May 8 promises to be sturdy in constitution and in character. It will possess high courage and will always be stronger in attack than in defense. It will not be stubborn; but, once it has made up its mind, only very urgent reasons will ever induce it to change.

Born on May 8, you are too fond of your ease and comfort to ever become an outstanding success, although you are endowed by nature with many traits that would enable you to achieve much. You, however, lack that fighting spirit which always distinguishes those who go ahead. You will not make sacrifices in order to secure a goal. You would rather lose and be comfortable than win and abate one iota of your ease.

Your personality is very attractive. You shine as a conversationalist, and you are a good story teller. You read a good deal, principally fiction, but generally look at the last chapter to see if it ends happily. If it fails to do so, you are rather disposed to "chuck it." Your friends are numerous, but your close intimates are few. Many like you, while only few, very few, love you. Your mind is a keen one. Your conceptions are abortive, as you are rarely willing to go through the period of travail in order to bring them to birth.

The opposite sex is attracted to you, and you yourself are not immune to its charms. You will experience a variety of infatuations—as unsatisfying as inconstant—and only in later years will you meet your real mate— the one destined to take you out of yourself, and help you to make of your life what the stars intended it should be.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

PLANTS DEMAND FOOD.

SO many inquiries are coming to my desk regarding the proper nourishment of plants, both garden and house varieties, that I feel it is wise to devote an article to this subject even though almost every article in the last six weeks has made reference to some form of fertilizer.

Plants, like people, can be overfed and they can also be undernourished. When overstimulated they put forth large quantities of foliage, which is usually a little different from that which results from a more normal development. Sometimes the leaves are smaller, and usually they are borne on longer stems, but stems that can not quite sustain themselves, so that the plant has a rather droopy appearance.

Again, the leaves may be large and coarse, but in either case much of the general attractiveness is gone. Overfed plants never produce flowers except perhaps a few rather indifferent blooms, as all the energy of the plant has gone into developing foliage.

In the case of the flowers which may occasionally be produced, the colors are never true. Usually they are pale and lifeless.

Underfed plants, no matter whether they are in the house or in your garden, always become the prey of some insect or disease.

The best plant foods are those rich in nitrogen, which is essential to all plant development. Generally speaking, I consider liquid manure the very best all-round food. I am always loath to recommend patent foods, because while they are quite all right in the hands of a skilled horticulturist, in the hands of the amateur who is not familiar with their formula and their uses, they may be worthless.

Liquid sheep manure can be easily made by placing 25 pounds of dried sheep manure in an ash can of water. Keep the container closed and in the sun for about ten days before using. (Once a day the mixture should be stirred.) Two ladlefuls of this mixture should be added to a watering pot of water. You can use this once every week with perfect safety on everything in the garden that you feel is in need of such a tonic.

Some plants, especially stocks, should be given bonemeal in the early part of the season. Later they will thrive best in liquid manure.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Smart" was originally given as a nickname. It is of Anglo-Saxon origin, and means "quick," "sharp" and "brisk." A common early spelling of this name was "Smert."

After the fall of the Roman Empire the various inhabitants of Europe generally contented themselves with single names corresponding to our modern personal names. With the growth of cities, however, it often became necessary to use a second name for some people, since several men with the same personal name often came to live in the same neighborhood. In most cases the second name which was adopted was the name of the father. The father's name was used in the genitive case, and it was regularly preceded by the word "filius," meaning "son." Thus, a typical name was Petrus filius Martini (Peter, son of Martin). Since the father's name was in the genitive case, its value in the son's name was clearly understood, so the word "filius" was frequently considered superfluous and was therefore omitted. Among the Normans the word "filius" became "fitz" by a natural transformation of the language. Thus, such names as Fitzgerald and Fitzsimon were created. But with the Normans, also, the word for 'son" came to be considered superflous, so a man's second name was frequently merely his father's name in its simple and unaltered form, such as we now see in so many family names of Norman origin. However, it should be remembered that even though early records show many cases of double names, the second names did not become hereditary until the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and very often not until much later.

CONTRACTORS MEET IN CAPITAL TODAY

Executive Board of Association Will Discuss Reformation of Industry.

Two hundred general contractors are meeting today at the Washington Hotel to collectively tackle the reformation of the construction industry. The occasion is the annual spring meeting of the executive board of the Associated General Contractors of America, at which the evils of bid peddling, wage cutting, loose credit and irresponsibility are to be attacked with renewed vigor by a band of some of the Nation's foremost builders.

Included in the meeting, which will continue throughout today and tomorrow, are constructors to whom the intricacies of bridging a river, erecting a skyscraper, digging a subway, laying a highway or building a railroad or mammoth dam is just another job. They are headed by A. P. Greensfelder, president, who as far back as the St. Louis world's fair had a big hand in the construction projects of the Missouri metropolis, at that time devoting himself to the designing and construction of the railroad facilities for the fair.

The association's vice president, Col. William A. Starrett, of New York, who will preside at a dinner meeting of the board at the Washington Hotel tonight, has frequently left the mark of his skill upon the landscape of this city, notably in the erection of the Union Station, which he built before he was 30 years old.

The board's sessions will start at 9 o'clock this morning and the program includes consideration of practically every problem of construction ethics and business practice. Representatives of half a dozen other national organizations whose interests are allied to the construction industry, including Robert D. Kohn, president of the American Institute of Architects, also will attend. The meeting was preceded yesterday by a meeting of the president's cabinet of the association with Edward J. Harding, of this city, who is managing director.

WILL PRESIDE

COL. WILLIAM A. STARRETT will preside at a dinner meeting of the executive board, Associated General Contractors of America, tonight at the Washington Hotel.

Buffalo Fire Toll Set at $7,000,000

4 Groups of Investigators Seeking to Discover Origin of Blaze.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 7 (A.P.).—Tangled heaps of steel cooled slowly tonight as streams were played on them by five fire companies—rear guard to those who fought to check the flames which destroyed the 106th Field Artillery Armory, a church and parsonage last night. Scores of houses in the neighborhood stood charred in spots. Fire officials estimated the loss at $7,000,000.

Four groups of investigators were inquiring into the origin of the fire and why it gained tremendous headway before discovery. These investigators represent the War Department, New York State, the local police and the 106th Field Artillery.

Meanwhile, Col William R. Pooley, commanding the 174th Regiment, stationed extra guards at the armory used by his regiment, pending positive proof of the origin of last night's fire, but declined to discuss the possibility of incendiary origin rumored about the city.

Cars Crowd to Miami.

More than 1,000 motor cars enter Miami daily during the peak of the winter season, bearing license tags from every State of the Union, Mexico, Cuba, Canada and even distant Hawaii. This early in the season licenses from Juneau, Alaska; Paris, France, and London, England, have been noted on cars in the downtown district.

RADIO LICENSE CASE HEARINGS ARE SET

Commission Will Determine Policy on Renewals on June 15.

(Associated Press.)

A decision to conduct hearings to determine its policy toward renewal of more than 1,409 radio licenses held by the Radio Corporation of America and its reputed subsidiaries was reached yesterday by the radio commission.

The hearings, set for June 15 before the entire commission, will decide whether it should refuse renewal applications of the companies involved, in view of recent Federal court decisions holding the Radio Corporations's license contracts with other companies were illegal.

The controversy arose from the recent refusal by the Supreme Court to review the case brought by the De Forest Radio Co., of Passaic, N. J., which charged the Radio Corporation's tube contracts constituted a violation of the antitrust laws.

The radio act, under which the commission operates, provides in one section that licenses shall be denied to any company or its subsidiaries finally adjudged to have created or attempted to create a monopoly. A sharp division of opinion exists, however, as to whether this section was intended by Congress to apply to civil cases, such as that brought by the De Forest Co., or only to criminal proceedings.

Commissioner Lafount expressed the view that, regardless of the course decided upon after the hearings, some interested party would appeal the case to the Court of Appeals. In view of this probability, he added, the hearings would serve to develop all the evidence for presentation to that court.

The commission said only one renewal application from the Radio Corporation and each of its subsidiaries would be involved in the hearings. Other licenses necessary for continuance of existing services will be renewed on a temporary basis pending outcome of the hearings.

'Legs" Diamond's Wife Subpenaed at Bedside

Albany, N. Y., May 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Alice Diamond, wife of Jack (Legs) Diamond, gang leader, was served with a subpoena while standing at the bedside of her husband here, requiring her to depart immediately for Catskill, to appear before the grand jury investigating gangster activities.

She arrived late in the day, but after refusing to answer even the questions as to her birthplace and age, she was resubpoenaed for appearance Monday. She said she was refusing to talk on the advice of counsel.

Ethiopia's Emperor Joins Sponsors of Prohibition

New Ruler Deplores Demoralizing Effects of Drink in His African Realm, and Suggests Closing "Tej" Shops, Where Music Lures Youth.

Ras Taffari, the newly crowned Emperor of Ethiopia, who claims descent from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, has been stricken with prohibition sentiment, judging from a communication just received at the State Department from Addison E. Southard, the American Minister in that far-off land.

Minister Southard has sent to the State Department an article he clipped from Berhanena Salam, a newspaper run off on the emperor's private printing press. The article is headed "The Harm Caused by Drink Shops," and reads, in part:

"The harm caused by drink shops is worthy of serious consideration. Proprietors of lands alongside the roads built two or three more shops and rent them out. The greater number of these are operated as drink shops. In order that receipts may not diminish, the operators of these shops invite musicians.

"When passers-by hear the voices of the musicians they are attracted by the sweetness of the music. Some young men approach the shops and listen. When they see the tej (a powerful Ethiopian home brew) nicely presented in a row in decanters, they say:

"'Let us buy a piaster's worth and taste it.' Then they enter the place."

To make a long story short, once the young men, lured by the musicians, enter the drink shops and get on the outside of that tej stuff, they get good and tight, and do a lot of foolish things, such as pawning their arms and cartridge belts.

"We inform you," says the emperor's newspaper, "that drink shops should be forbidden, as they have become the source of all evil."

Ambassador to Cuba Confers With Stimson

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Guggenheim conferred yesterday with Secretary Stimson over relations between the United States and Cuba and other questions connected with his duties as Ambassador to Cuba. The envoy declined to discuss details of the conference.

Ambassador Guggenheim will fly from Washington to New York today to look after personal business interests and will return to Washington in about a week to confer again with Stimson.

Child Health Work Is Being Extended

Report Is Made of New States Holding Conferences on Subject.

(Associated Press.)

The work of the White House conference on child health and protection is rapidly being extended through State, county and city organizations.

Dr. H. E. Barnard, director of the conference, has reported to President Hoover that Indiana, Georgia, New Jersey, Utah, New Hampshire, and Florida already have held State conferences under the direct leadership of the governor and commissioners of health, education and welfare.

"The meetings were enthusiastic," Barnard reported, "and resulted in the organization of plans to carry out the White House Conference aims and principles according to local conditions and needs."

In addition, he said, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, Louisiana, Colorado, Wyoming and Oregon are developing programs in preparation for similar Statewide conferences next fall.

Acceptance of responsibility for local results by unofficial bodies such as the Federation of Women's Clubs, League of Women Voters, Parent Teachers Associations, Boy and Girl Scouts, church and medical clubs and societies and civic clubs insures a continuing and effective interest in carrying out practical measures for child health and protection, in the opinion of Dr. Barnard.

REFRIGERATOR

FREE LIFETIME SERVICE

WE couldn't afford to give you free lifetime service on Electrolux if it were not such a dependable refrigerator.

For Electrolux has no machinery to get out of order. Instead of moving parts to circulate the refrigerant, it has only a tiny gas flame and a trickle of water. The gas flame changes the refrigerant to vapor. The water condenses it back to liquid form again. That's the simple way Electrolux makes cold, freezes ice cubes. And that's why this refrigerator never makes a sound. It has nothing to make sound, ever. There's no wear, no vibration as long as you have it.

The refrigerant is hermetically sealed in a rigid steel unit, and need not be renewed. The tiny gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off. The gas must burn, or the gas shuts off. The chilling action is continuous. THERE'S NO STOPPING AND STARTING IN ELECTROLUX. That is why it maintains constant, steady cold.

And all these things are back of the unusually low operating cost of Electrolux. 6 cents a day is the average total operating expense for gas and water in this city. Think that over. Compare it with your present ice bills, or with the operating cost of any other automatic refrigerator.

No Finance Charges

You pay no interest charges for deferred payments on Electrolux. And only a small down payment. What other refrigerator on the market can you buy on such liberal terms?

Quick Facts

1—Free lifetime service.
2—Permanently noiseless.
3—6c a day average operating cost.
4—Automatic without moving parts.
5—Works continuously, no stopping and starting.
6—Maintains constant, steady cold.
7—Freezes plenty of ice cubes.
8—Refrigerant hermetically sealed in rigid steel . . . never needs renewal.
9—Dependable . . . no machinery to get out of order.
10—More than 150,000 already in use.
11—Two years to pay—no finance charges.

Two Years to Pay

And for a limited time you can spread the payments over 24 months, which brings the average down to $10 a month, or only $2.50 a week. And you'll save part of that on ice bills.

WILLIAM AND MARY MAY FESTIVAL HELD

New Jersey Girl Is Crowned Queen at College Ceremony.

Williamsburg, Va., May 7 (A.P.).—Clare Hargrove, of Montclair, N. J., was crowned Queen of the May at William and Mary College today in the annual May celebration.

The ceremonies were held on the historic old front campus of the college.

Miss Hargrove is one of the school's most popular girls, prominent in activities and a member of the Kappa Kapa Gamma Sorority. She was voted the most typical William and Mary girl last year and received the honor of May Queen through the vote of her fellow members of the Women's Student Government Association. Five women were nominated for the honor from the senior class. The other four served as ladies in waiting.

Virginia Turman, the 1930 queen, a niece of Gov. Pollard, was to crown her 1931 successor. Others to have part in the coronation ceremonies were Carrie Lucas, Agnes Winn, Hazel Storch, Ellen Ticer, Virginia Mullen, Martha Barrow, Lois Roberts and Elizabeth Ambler.

May Day this year was one of the most elaborate of the spring festivals ever staged at the college, and extensive preparations have been under way for weeks. It was of a strictly modern nature and employed all the modern devices and appliances, including airplanes, which heralded the queen's arrival, and radio, through which an announcer, hidden from view, explained the fete as it progressed.

About 100 men and women students participated in the celebration, which consisted of unique dances and stunts. An aerial circus was given just prior to the entertainment proper by a squadron of planes piloted by licensed pilots of the student body. Among these were J. A. C. Chandler, jr., Hugh Kiessler, Collins Vince and Yel Kent.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 7.—This city is now better prepared for a possible period of drought than it has been for nearly a year, according to records made public today by City Manager H. A. Yancey.

The city recently installed a pumping plant on Mechums River, but as yet this has not been in operation as the supply from Moormans River, the regular municipal source, is furnishing more than enough for consumption of the city and its environs.

Fog Sends Blimp Into Virginia Tree

Failing Supply of Gasoline Forces Down Craft; None of Crew Hurt.

Langley Field, Va., May 7 (A.P.).—Failing gasoline supply caused a forced landing of the Langley Field blimp TC-10 last night about 8 miles from here as the ship was attempting to find its home port in a fog after returning from the apple blossom festival at Winchester.

Upon receiving the report today, Langley Field officials immediately sent a squad from the flying field to the assistance of the blimp's crew.

From meager information reaching here it was learned that the blimp was damaged in striking a tree. None of the crew, the report said, was hurt. They spent the night in the ship.

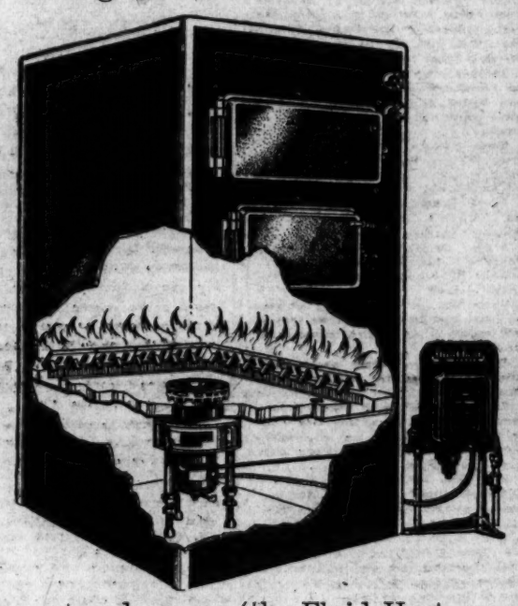
COMPLETE HEATING SERVICE

Coal—Fuel Oil—Oil Burners

and then include one or more of them in the advertisement you submit this week

In writing your ZAIN advertisement on L. P. Steuart & Bro. "Complete Heating Service"—remember it is just that—a complete heating service.



This heating service starts with coal. A high-grade anthracite coal of uniform quality, plus the recommendations of a combustion engineer as to the proper size of coal and method of firing for you to secure best and most economical results from your particular heater. Even embracing a vacuum cleaning system for the removal of soot, scale and rust.

The next branch of this complete heating service is fuel oil for those homes with oil burners. That oil supplied by L. P. Steuart & Bro. comes from one of the largest and most modern oil storage plants in Washington—an adequate supply at all times and for every emergency. It is the best obtainable.

Third, believing that greater satisfaction in automatic heat could be obtained by our heating service also, including the installation of the burner, we have selected two burners (the Fluid Heat Oil Burner and the Harding Oil Burner) as the best of such equipment obtainable in meeting various requirements of various homes. Both these burners use the cheaper grades of oil, and all such installations are serviced by trained mechanics avaiable 24 hours a day.

These are the points on our "Complete Heating Service" which should be featured in your ZAIN ad. Now write your advertisement for next week. It may win $100 for you.

Our thanks, too to the thousands of participants in the Zain ad-writing contest who have included or featured L. P. Steuart & Bro. in the advertisements submitted. Indeed, so splendid are these advertisements that the contest judges have great difficulty in determining the winning advertisement each week. Winners of L. P. Steuart & Bro. prize advertisements will be published in next Sunday's Post.

Visit our model basement

and see the advantages of L. P. Steuart & Bro., "Complete Heating Service" as evidenced in the arrangement of appliances and other room appointments. It will give you even greater knowledge of what to feature in your advertisement.

ALLEGED RUM RING RECORDS SUBPENAED

U. S. Grand Jury to Examine Figures on Alcohol; Quiz Is Speeded.

Baltimore, Md., May 7 (A.P.).—Records of thirteen concerns manufacturing or dealing in industrial alcohol and similar products have been subpenaed by a Federal grand jury investigating an alleged liquor ring believed to have Nation-wide ramifications.

The information came today from witnesses summoned to appear before the jury, which opened its inquiry Monday. Twenty-eight indictments were returned following the seizure of three alcohol cracking plants here in 1929, and Federal officials said approximately 125 indictments would be asked of the current grand jury.

The records subpenaed were specifically those showing the relations of the thirteen concerns with twelve individuals, several of whom are among those previously indicted.

The investigation, said by officials to be among the most sweeping undertaken by Federal authorities since prohibition, came to a temporary halt today because of the necessity of disposing of local Federal cases. District Attorney Simon E. Sobeloff, who entered the inquiry today in an effort to speed it up, excused a number of witnesses who had been summoned from distant cities, for the time being.

The inquiry is costing a total of $700 a day, it was estimated, a leading factor being the distances traveled by some of the witnesses who are from cities as disant as Bangor, Me., St. Louis, Kansas City, Boston and Chicago.

The investigation is expected to continue three weeks.

Woman Reports $50 Robbery.

Mrs. Ivah De Pue, of 1747 Columbia road northwest, reported to police yesterday that her home had been entered by a colored youth, who stole personal property valued at $50. The youth was seen to jump from a window by neighbors.

Mr. Stringer, who won the other $100 prize, wrote about the Washington Gas Light Co. To further convince himself he is not dreaming he says he is going to listen tonight to the Fairfax Dairies announcement of prize winners over WOL at 9:15, and the Washington Gas Light Co. announcement over WRC at 10 o'clock of the prize winners.

"I have not written many ads, in fact only four," he said, "and I can hardly believe I've won. I knew if I kept on writing ads, as I expect to do, I had some chance of winning a prize, but I never expected to get one of those $100 first prizes."

When asked how long it took him to write the prize-winning ad, he said, "Fifteen minutes after I got the idea." His advice to those wishing to win prizes is this: "Forget the prize, put yourself into the advertiser's place, get across to the public the services of the concern about which you are writing and leave the rest to the judges."

Mr. Stringer is going to purchase $100 worth of apparel from Rixik Brothers for Mrs. Stringer. Then, he said, "I expect her to write the prize-winning ad about that concern and win that $1,000 additional prize they are giving the $1,000 grand prize winner. I, too, am going to keep on writing ads, however, just in case she doesn't win."

Miss Blackman, of Middleburg, Va., wrote a prize-winning ad on Edgar Morris Sales, the agency for Westinghouse refrigeration. "I wrote about 18 ads this week," she declared. "I gave a lot of thought to winning a strand of those beautiful Richelieu pearls, but I didn't expect my ad to be good enough to win one of them. I am surely glad, however, that the judges weren't of the same opinion. I have to leave the city in a few days, but before I go I am going to write all the ads I can for the fifth week of this contest and each day while I am in New York I am going to mail to The Post all the ads I can possibly find time to write. The judges by selecting my ad restored confidence to me. Even though I don't think my ads are good, I am going to send them in because, as in this case, one of those may be just the one the judges will select for the $1,000 grand prize."

The winner of another strand of pearls was Mr. Westall, of Fort Humphreys, who wrote his prize-winning ad about the Federal American National Bank. "I wrote about 20 ads this combined period," he said, "and I suppose the reason this ad won was because I perhaps realize the value of money and banking and can write a better ad about that than about those other concerns that I don't know so much about. I am going to learn more about them, however, and at the close of the fifth week of this contest I am going to look forward to one of my ads winning that $100 first prize."

The winner of the third strand of pearls was Mr. McCann. "They are beautiful pearls," he said, "and even though I am not married I have a person in mind to whom I am going to present them. I worked very hard for this prize. I wrote many ads each day, and certainly found it interesting. Besides the appeal of winning a prize, I found it so fascinating I have declined many invitations in order to stay home evenings and write ads about all of these concerns. My sister game me the idea for my prize-winning ad, which I wrote about the Edmonston Shoe Co. She always has had the highest praise for shoes sold by this company. I heard so much about this concern and the quality, comfort and smartness of their shoes that I thought I would incorporate some of these things in my ad.

"My goal is that $1,000 grand prize. I am going to write all types, kinds and forms of ads and then if I don't win, I'll at least know I've done my best."

Medal Is Awarded To Mrs. Coolidge

Former First Lady Given Honor for Rendering Aid to Deaf.

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge was honored for extending a helping hand to the deaf. She and three other persons were awarded the gold medal of the National Institute of Social Sciences at a dinner in the Hotel Pierre.

Others who received the medal were Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State; Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, and Dr. Richard Clark Cabot, professor of social ethics of Harvard University.

The award to Mrs. Coolidge was based on her "distinguished services in behalf of the deaf at the Clark School, Northampton, Mass., and for her fine personal influence exerted as the First Lady of the Land."

Man Halts Theft Of $450,000 Gems

Bookkeeper in New York Eases to Desk and Presses Alarm Button.

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—Three holdup men were foiled by a handcuffed bookkeeper today in attempting to rob a diamond firm of gems valued at $450,000. As the robbers made for a safe containing the jewels, the bookkeeper, Samuel Siegal, moved to a nearby desk and, unobserved, pressed an alarm button with his leg, summoning special officers.

Two of the men escaped. A third was captured in Fifth avenue by a policeman when a cab they had used in flight became jammed in traffic.

The gunmen, apparently familiar with everything except the alarm system in the eleventh floor offices of Samuel Lenkowsky, diamond importer, entered shortly after noon and handcuffed Siegal, who submitted with alacrity as he faced two guns and spied a lookout in the corridor. He moved casually to the desk concealing the signal and flashed the call.

YOUNGER MEN ASKED IN DRY LAW SERVICE

Enforcement Bureau Wants 35-Year Age Limit and Higher Requirements.

(Associated Press.)

Younger men and higher mental tests for applicants are desired by the Prohibition Bureau. Seeking to improve its personnel, the bureau yesterday asked the Civil Service Commission to reduce the maximum age limit from 50 to 35 years and to raise the standards of intelligence.

It also recommended elimination of the requirement of previous experience as an investigator, holding that if given the proper raw material, the bureau itself can supply necessary training in enforcement methods.

It was said that increasingly successful efforts had been made to "get away from the deputy sheriff type" of new agent. A number of college men already have been admitted to the service, and more are expected among the 500 additional agents authorized for service July 1.

When prohibition was placed under the Civil Service in 1927, admittance was open to men up to the age of 70. In 1928 the maximum was 57 years and in the last examination in December, 1930, it was 50.

The age limit is 35 in the Department of Justice's Bureau of Investigation and 39 in the Secret Service.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE FLAYS BEER RETURN

Action Would Hurt Workers and Not Aid Grain Sale, Statement Avers.

(Associated Press.)

The Antisaloon League declared in a statement yesterday "the position of the American Federation of Labor relative to the return of beer is unsound in three respects."

"The legalization of beer," the statement said, "would instantly result in a sharp decrease in the purchase of other commodities, thereby promptly throwing from three to ten times more out of employment than the number to whom employment might be given by beer.

"Beer would not increase the demand for grain and thus help the Government records, as the amount of grain used by all the distilleries and breweries for all purposes during 1917, the last normal wet year, was 2,500,000,000 pounds less than the increased consumption of grain used as stock feed to produce 212 pounds extra milk per capita consumed annually under prohibition.

"Beer would not promote temperance. In the old days while Hinky Dink's places in Chicago were selling a quart of beer for a nickel the consumption of whisky was as high as ever."

The Antisaloon League indorsed the appeal delivered by Mrs. Rushmore Patterson to the federation's executive council Wednesday for support of prohibition.

Ways of Acquiring an Estate

Everyone whose income is more than sufficient to supply his family the necessities of life can save and through saving acquire an estate. There are many forms of saving: Savings account, purchase of stocks, bonds, buying a house in installments and life insurance. Saving through life insurance is one of the best. Premiums are payable in installments, and the uncertain element of the duration of life is provided for with certainty. Upon death, the policy becomes payable in full, whether it has been in force a long or a short period. Life insurance is one of the easiest methods of acquiring an estate, one of the safest, and creates a potential estate immediately.

We do not sell life insurance, but we do recommend it.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Roy Sternsky

"Stool Pigeon"

YEARS AGO PIGEONS WERE SO NUMERDUS AS TO BE A SOURCE OF ANNOYANCE TO FARMERS. ONE WAY TO CATCH THEM WAS TO PLACE A HIGH STOOL IN THE MIDDLE OF A FIELD AND FASTEN A PIGEON TO IT. WHEN THE OTHERS FLOCKED AROUND THE DECOY, THEY COULD BE EASILY SHOT. THAT'S HOW WE ARRIVED AT OUR EXPRESSION, "STOOL PIGEON," TO DENOTE A HUMAN DECOY AMONG CRIMINALS.

Also Ran

HORSES WHICH FAIL TO FINISH FIRST, SECOND OR THIRD IN A RACE ARE MERELY MENTIONED AS THOSE WHICH "ALSO RAN." WE'VE TAKEN THE RACE TRACK PHRASE AND APPLIED IT TO FAILURES IN POLITICS AND OTHER CONTESTS.

The Undertaker

CENTURIES AGO EACH VILLAGE HAD A HANDY-MAN WHO EARNED HIS LIVING BY UNDERTAKING ODD JOBS OF ALL KINDS. EMBALMING AND LAYING OUT CORPSES WAS ONE OF THE TASKS WHICH FELL TO HIS LOT. LATER, WHEN HE NARROWED HIS WORK TO EMBALMING AND BURYING, HE WAS STILL CALLED THE UNDERTAKER.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

LONG LIVE AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

HIGH blood pressure is not conducive to longevity. This is the burden of reports from insurance companies, health officials and private physicians. Let us say that everybody knows that, and the interest now is in learning what can be done about it.

Dr. D. Riesman tells us of one reason why high blood pressure is not conducive to longevity and shows us one thing to do about it. People who learn that they have high blood pressure develop a blood pressure complex. They become anxious, they worry and sometimes they go into a funk lest their blood pressure get them. Nothing is more effective in raising blood pressure. High blood pressure causes fear and fear causes high blood pressure, and so the wheels go round.

The better side is this: The man who can train himself out of fear, who can teach himself not to worry, to take life as it comes, will do much to prevent high blood pressure from interfering with his longevity, what ever it may do to the other fellow's.

Dr. Riesman has another opinion of the same tenor. It is that unless a high blood pressure is associated with some organic disease the person who has it should be able so to live as that long life will be his lot.

To this Dr. Steiglitz adds another guide post of the same type. It is, if the blood pressure fluctuates a good deal there is a considerable chance that conditions can be brought on to a pretty satisfactory level.

The habits that Dr. Riesman emphasizes depend much more on the patient than on the doctor. One is to take an after-dinner nap. He likes the plan, so popular in many parts of the world, of locking the doors at 12 and not opening them until 2. Meanwhile, the wheels stop, everybody eats a leasurely lunch, and then takes a short snooze. He advocates less strenuosity in both work and play.

Fewer big business deals, fewer holes of golf and less effort to beat bogey. He is against poker and bridge, races, prize fights, riots and political campaigns. As to eating, he is opposed to gorges and feeds. Quantity is more important than quality. He advises that meat be eaten once a day, but no alcoholic beverages, no condiments and no tobacco. If a man has any of these as a habit he should greatly limit his indulgence. He advocates a low salt diet, not a no salt diet. If a person is overweight he should eat sparingly of starches, sweets and fats.

DEPENDS ON THE MAN.

Mrs. R. writes: Is there any cure for a man who drinks heavily? Is there anything that could be given to him?

REPLY.

Cure can be guaranteed if the man wants to quit and is willing to make the fight, if he is mentally normal and sound, and if he has character. If there are any missing ingredients, cure is doubtful. If certain ones are missing cure is impossible. Medicines may cause nausea and thus temporarily interfere with the appetite. They may clear the drug out of the system, but they can not supply character or mental normalcy.

BUTTERMILK.

S. C. H. writes:

1. Is buttermilk fattening?

2. What causes the stomach to swell after eating?

REPLY.

1. Not very. It contains an abundance of water and almost no fat. However, if one eats considerable food and drinks freely of buttermilk in addition he will put on fat.

2. You refer to a feeling of fullness after eating. Among the causes are overeating, overdistending the stomach with fluids, rapid eating, air swallowing, constipation, reverse peristalsis due to gall bladder trouble, eating improper foods.

EXCHANGE TO CURB INVESTMENT TRUSTS

Stringent Rules Inaugurated in New York to Protect Investors.

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange today announced the inauguration of stringent regulations under which member firms may distribute the securities of so-called fixed investment trusts.

This action has been taken to protect the small investors, and is regarded as one of the more revolutionary steps taken by the exchange in recent years. The fixed trust vogue among security distributors, as a means of serving the small investor, as spread rapidly during the past year. Roughly $1,000,000,000 worth of these securities have been distributed, mostly in 1930 and 1931.

President Richard Whitney of the stock exchange was "considering what action it should take to draw the attention of the public to the possible dangers connected with fixed investment trusts."

Opinions Are Withheld.

In announcing its requirements for trusts with which its members may be associated, as security distributors or otherwise, the exchange explains that it "is not prepared to express any opinion regarding the soundness of the principles underlying the formation of investment trusts of the fixed or restricted management type."

It proposes, however, that its members shall be associated only with trusts the structures of which "do not contain provisions which in themselves appear to operate to the detriment of those who invest in their securities," and "the information afforded the public in connection therewith is not such as to be misleading or to conceal pertinent facts."

The exchange explains that it is dealing only with determinable facts, and that it would be easy, so far as the investor is concerned, to overemphasize such facts. It explains that the nature of the underlying securities or other provisions may be easily the most important factors in determining the suitability of a certain trust for a certain investor.

Inferences Are Safeguarded.

The determination by the exchange that any particular trust is not objectionable, it explains, "should in no event be construed as an expression of opinion in regard to the intrinsic value of such trust or its desirability as an investment."

Trusts desiring to have their securities sold through any stock exchange house must henceforth make a detailed application to the stock exchange for approval. Furthermore, the exchange will inspect all advertising or sales circulars used by approved trusts. The regulations will shortly affect trusts already affiliated with stock exchange firms. Firms having such affiliations are given until May 31 to provide the exchange full information regarding them.

The exchange regulations deal emphatically with aspects which Mr. Whitney in his Philadelphia address pointed out as liable to abuse, particularly with the making public in clear form of all facts of charges made to the investor, in addition to the cost of the underlying securities in the trust, and with claims made in connection with the past performances of the trust or its underlying securities.

Two Members Expelled By Chicago Exchange

Chicago, May 7 (A.P.).—Two members of the Chicago Stock Exchange were expelled by the governing committee today for unethical conduct after a hearing that lasted until 2 a. m.

Charles L. Trumbull, a partner in the firm of Trumbull, Wardell & Co., was accused of violating two sections of the exchange rules, conducting business in a "reckless and unbusinesslike manner," and making fictitious transactions. He was alleged to have traded securities without involving any change in ownership, buying and selling to himself. Harvey Cory, understood to have a working agreement, although not a member of the Trumbull firm, was expelled on the second count.

Airplane Orders Total $1,580,000 in 60 Days

Buffalo, N. Y., May 7 (A.P.).—P. A. Hewlett, sales manager of the Buffalo division of the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co., announced today that orders for Army and Navy planes amounting to approximately $1,580,000 had been received here within the past two months.

He said the plant was now at work on 73 planes for the Navy, to cost $1,030,000. An order for 30 Army planes was received several weeks ago, while a further order for 10 Army planes was received yesterday, bringing the total of Army contracts up to approximately $550,000. Work on these orders, Mr. Hewlett said, probably would insure peak production throughout the remainder of this year.

Grain Traffic Outlook Is Called Favorable

Union Pacific President Sees Business Upturn

Chicago, May 7 (A.P.).—Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific System, speaking before the Chicago Traffic Club last night, decried pessimism over the depression and the future of American business, especially the railroads.

"The railroads are now sharing the depression from which all business is suffering," he said. "To entertain any doubt that the railroads will come back is to entertain an equal doubt that American business will recover, and this, no one for a minute believes.

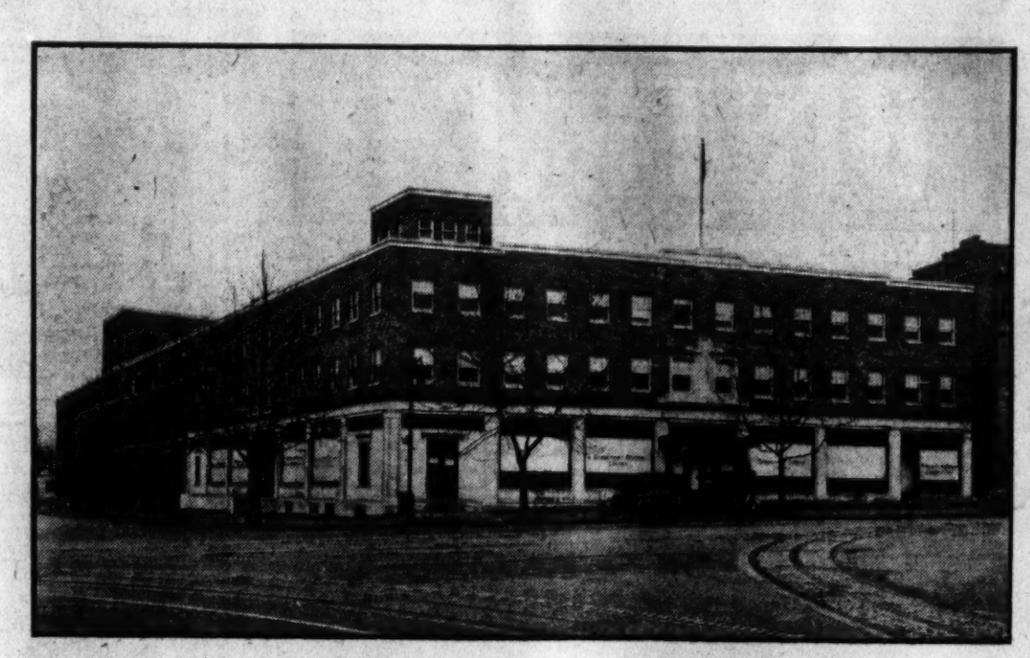
THE WORLD'S MODEL DAIRY

again extends a cordial invitation to the people of Washington



WOULD YOU like to "see the wheels go round"? We'd like to have you. We have often entertained out-of-towners, who come to see the model dairy of the world . . . and we are always delighted to have our Washington friends inspect the Chestnut Farms plant.

We are sure you will find it interesting to watch the production of milk. There is, first, the receiving-room, where inspection is made of the milk from the farms. Here samples are taken to be analyzed in our laboratories, and all milk is rejected which fails to come up to Chestnut Farms superior standards.

Then there's the weighing-room, and from here, samples are tested for butter-fat content! Thus we make sure the milk is rich and nutritious. Next, it is pasteurized in huge vats . . . then bottled and capped, automatically . . . untouched by human hands! You'll see our modern, efficient machinery; all our spotless, sanitary equipment! See our white-uniformed workers . . . and the swift sureness and skill of their every movement.

We know you'll enjoy it . . . come and "see the wheels go round"! We're at 26th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. And call Potomac 4000 for orders!

Reported Appearance Of Saint Stirs Irak

Baara, Irak, May 7 (A.P.).—Police were called out today to restore order when sobbing crowds surged through the streets in the belief that Ali, the son of the prophet, had appeared at a local mosque on this, his feast day.

The frenzy of the crowds apparently originated in a report that two Shiah women who desired to enter the mosque to pray were diverted by the doorkeeper until Ali interfered, opened the door and struck the doorkeeper insane. The Shiahs, who form a considerable part of the population, regard Ali as their patron saint, next to Allah.

THREE ARE DROWNED AS SHIP RAMS TUG

Boston Craft, Cut in Two, Sinks in Few Minutes; Liner Undamaged.

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—Cut in two by the steel prow of the steamer New York, the tugboat Trimount, of Boston, was sunk early today off Race Rock, 10 miles southeast of New London, with a loss of three lives.

Six men were picked up in lifeboats of the Eastern steamship liner, which was en route from Boston to New York with 300 passengers when the collisioin occurred in fog and heavy rain. The liner was undamaged.

The men who lost their lives were: Peter Webb, Everett, Mass., cook; Sam Christenson, Brooklyn, N. Y., deckhand, and Edward Anderson, Everett, welder. They were all members of the Trimount crew, bound from Bridgeport to Providence.

The survivors were brought to New York by the steamship after an hour's vain search for the missing.

Capt. W. N. Corning of the liner, who was in the pilot house, said he had been proceeding slowly and had blown a whistle for a half-hour continuously. A moment before the collision the lookout saw the lights of the tugboat too late to avoid the crash.

Capt. Cecil Bethel of the tugboat said he had blown his whistle frequently and had heard the sound of the steamship's whistle, but was unable to determine the direction before the steel prow cut the wooden craft in two and sank it within a few minutes.

Spanish Army Changes Dress.

Madrid, May 7 (A.P.).—Soldiers of the Spanish army hereafter will be dressed in uniforms of gray khaki, such as have been worn by the French for years, it was announced today. Previously the dress of Spanish troopers was olive green, somewhat similar to that worn in the United States Army.

Russia's Power Climb Foreseen

Soviet Will Pass U. S. in Next Ten Years, Says Committee Head.

Moscow, May 7 (A.P.).—In the next ten years Soviet Russia will have developed 60,000,000 to 70,000,000 kilowatts of electrical power, G. I. Lomoff, president of the committee for preparation of the new 10-year electric plan, told a conference of electrical engineers today.

In that period, he predicted, the Soviet Union will have surpassed the United States in electrification projects. The new plan will go into operation early next year.

The first ten-year plan originated by Lenin is practically completed so far as total kilowatts is concerned, he said, but in some centers the schedule fell far behind. That plan called for 1,750,000 kilowatts, with thirty district power plants. The total was attained but certain shifts in the schedule gave the agricultural areas only 50,000 kilowatts whereas a million had been assigned to those districts.

Worker Admits Theft, Sends Executive $100

Hammond, Ind., May 7 (A.P.).—Frank D. McElroy, head of a belting company, said today that he had received $100 in cash from a former employe. An accompanying letter mailed from Toronto, Canada, explained:

"While I was in your employ many years ago, believing that I was not sufficiently paid for my work, I took certain material. I do not know the exact value, but I do know that I want to confess my sin, and I am now inclosing herewith $100 to apply on the account. Whether it was more or less, I can not say; but I have asked God's forgiveness and I am asking yours. I believe His promise that if we confess our sins He is able to forgive our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Bucharest Bars Teuton Delegates

Government Refuses to Let Them Enter Capital on Treaty Mission.

Bucharest, May 7 (A.P.).—The refusal of the Roumanian governmen to permit a German commercial treaty delegation to enter Bucharest while the conference of the Little Entente is sitting, has developed into a diplomatic incident. The government suddenly broke off negotiations, although the German representatives were already on their way.

The charge d'affaires of the German Embassy today informed the Roumanian foreign minister the German delegates had been slighted, "in a most uncivil manner," and Germany would wait before reopening negotiations.

The prevailing belief here was that Roumania was prepared to proceed with negotiations, but that Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia, other members of the Entente, reminded her of their duty toward the union and toward France.

Woman Regains Speech On Being Stung by Bee

Scranton, Pa., May 7 (A.P.).—The sting of a bumble bee is said to have brought back the faculty of speech to Mrs. Alice Collins, 61, of Olyphant Borough, who lost her voice 20 years ago through paralysis of the throat.

Mrs. Collins, who was remoted to a hospital a month ago, was wheeled out to the lawn of the hospital in the warm sunshine yesterday. Suddenly she screamed. A nurse found a bee had stung Mrs. Collins, who found her speech had returned.

Father's Case Is Mistrial.

Walhalla, S. C., May 7 (A.P.).—A mistrial was declared by Judge J. Henry Johnson today in the trial of J. R. Thomas, accused of killing his 15-year-old son, Maxie, to obtain $27,500 insurance money. His action was taken after the jury, which received the case late yesterday, had deliberated for twenty hours without reaching a verdict.

Rochambeau's Pass Book Is Uncovered

Document Sheds Light on French Aid During Revolution Here.

Nancy, France, May 7 (A.P.).—Another valuable document on the American Revolutionary War, consisting of an "order book" of the French forces in America, has been uncovered here by Charles Bruneau, president of the Academie de Stanislas of Nancy.

The record, kept on behalf of Rochambeau by Maj. Gen. Viscount de Viomenil, contains orders, pass words and names of the officers of the day during the stay of the French army until August 17, 1781.

Orders issued in July, 1780, are of particular interest. In these Rochambeau, before allowing his officers and men to disembark, reminded them that the French army was going to America as an auxiliary and that the commander-in-chief was Gen. George Washington.

CAMELS 80 can go 8 days without water

If you are a regular Camel smoker you already have noticed a big improvement in your favorite cigarette.

If you're not a Camel smoker we ask you to switch to this brand for just one day, then leave them if you can.

Thanks to the new Humidor Pack even a rancher on the Great American Desert can now revel in the fragrant luxury of expertly blended choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos in fresh mild condition.

As fast as they come out of the cigarette making machine, Camels now are wrapped in moisture-proof Cellophane and air-sealed.

That means they retain their mildness, freshness, and natural moisture until they come to you.

It is peppery dust and parched-dry tobacco that are harsh and unkind to a smoker's throat.

If you want the proof of that, try Camels in the new Humidor Pack today, and switch back tomorrow, if you can.

STOCK MARKET DULL ON SHIFT OF FUNDS

Rediscount Rate Reduction Turns Money From Shares to Bond Issues.

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—A vigorous movement of funds into bonds, anticipating reduction of the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate to 1½ per cent and reflecting previously taken steps in the broad easy money program, provided a contrast to the uncertain course of stocks in today's financial markets.

Bonds have been helped at previous times during the last eighteen months by favorable credit developments, but other influences have tended to weaken confidence and rallies in the investment market have been rather short-lived.

Wall street now believes the central banking authorities are seeking to force commercial banks into bonds, thereby strengthening the investment market and helping the cause of business recovery. It is almost axiomatic that a sustained rise in bond prices must precede any durable improvement in stocks, such, at least, has been the experience in past economic cycles.

Share Trading Dull.

Share trading was dull and erratic. The market worked upward during the first hour, but was unsettled by selling of the amusement shares and a few miscellaneous stocks. Most other groups eventually joined the decline, which was sufficient to establish new lows for United States Steel, American Can, Canadian Pacific, Paramount, Western Union, American Smelting, Eaton Axle and some others. Once again, however, a rally came to the rescue in the last hour and the losses were substantially reduced. There was a liberal sprinkling of small net gains, but a majority of issues returned moderate losses.

U. S. Steel touched 109⅞ before rallying to 111, where it was off 1¼ net. American Can slid to 104⅞, it closed at 106⅜, off 1¾. Much of the selling in Canadian Pacific was said to have come from Canadian sources and the stock was down nearly 3 points at the close. Other rails were uneven. Atchison lost most of an early 4-point rise. New York Central, Union Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio closed firm, but Southern Pacific and Lackawanna were soft. The group averaged into new low ground.

Woolworth gave a strong demonstration, rising 3½ points to a high for the year on reports that the management was planning disposal of its holdings in foreign subsidiaries. Other chain store stocks followed for a time but were unable to do so well.

Bill Purchases Increase.

The weekly reserve bank statement showed an increase in open market bill purchases, traceable in part to preparations for the May 1 settlements. The system's holdings of U. S. Government securities were unchanged, although there was a fair-sized drop in this item at the local bank. It is believed that the reserve, in carrying forward its easy money policy will prefer to operate through rediscounts and buying of acceptances rather than by the medium of transactions in governments, since such a method will be of more direct help to business.

The $31,000,000 drop in brokers' loans rather definitely indicated that last Thursday's sharp rally in stocks had been due to short covering. Total borrowings made a new low.

Wheat turned easy on reports of beneficial rains in Canada and forecasts of wet weather in the American Northwest. Futures closed with losses running up to 2 cents. Corn yielded part of yesterday's rise. Country offerings were larger. Cotton was erratic, but finished 2 to 6 points higher.

Foreign exchanges were firm. There was little variation in either sterling or the French franc.

BOND PRICES GAIN ON CHEAPER FUNDS

Rail Issues Close Higher, With Foreign Obligations Sharing in Rise.

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—The trend of the bond market was plainly upward today. The advance, however, was not uniform.

The rise in bond prices was regarded in some quarters as an anticipation in part of the reduction in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank. Some bankers at least looked upon the lower rate as an effort to revive interest in bonds. If the rates on short term obligations, which include notes eligible for rediscount, go low enough, there will be a greater incentive to invest in long term bonds, it was explained.

Higher prices were most apparent in railroad loans. Standard Statistics average price for ten leading rail bonds was 100.7, an advance of 0.7 point for the day and the highest average since April 2. Strength in all sorts of bonds has been concentrated pretty much recently among issues of recognized high credit standing, but the upward movement today was a broad affair, including all sorts of issues.

Boston & Maine 5s of 1967, Canadian Pacific debenture 4s and the 4½s of 1960, Erie refunding and improvement 5s of 1967 and of 1975, Missouri Pacific series I 5s, New York Central 4½s, of 2013, St. Paul 5s, of 1975, Southern Pacific 4½s of 1981 and Southern General 4s, closed higher after active trading.

This group is by no means inclusive of the bonds to close higher, but it is indicative of the breadth of the movement.

Foreign obligations shared in the advance during the forenoon, but the trend slackened thereafter and closing prices were divided about evenly between gains and declines. A late decline in Argentine issues featured this group. Public Utility and industrial bonds were irregularly higher.

United States Government bonds were quiet until the latter half of the session when the Liberty Fourth 4¼s, and the Treasury 3¾ of 1941-43 became active. This group closed with good gains.

SHOREY DEFEATS DRAIN, HUNTER AT WOODMONT

1930 Victor In Tourney Semifinal

Hermann, Thompson, Rabbitt Also Survive in Match Play.

Shorey, Out in 34, Has Big Early Lead Over Hunter.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

HISTORY will repeat itself if John C. Shorey, now a member of the Kenwood Club, should this afternoon win the invitation tournament of the Woodmont Club, as he was the winner in the event last year. He will play in the semifinal round this morning against Alton Rabbitt, an unattached player, in the upper half of the bracket. If he is victorious in his morning round, he will meet either James D. Herrman, Washington, or Forrest Thompson, Beaver Dam, this afternoon.

Having defeated James G. Drain, recent winner of the Washington Club tournament, in the morning round of match play yesterday, Shorey in the afternoon met J. Monro Hunter, jr., Indian Spring, who had won his morning match against Thomas S. Pitt, Argyle, by the same margin of 4 up and 3 to play. Shorey and Hunter were opponents in the final round of the Woodmont event last year, when Shorey won by 3 and 2.

Shorey Starts With Two Birdies.

From the very beginning of the Shorey-Hunter match the latter was down, for Shorey started with two birdies and had scored three birdies in the first five holes.

In fact, Hunter was 5 down at the eleventh hole, but staged a comeback, winning the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth, leaving him only 2 down on the fifteenth tee. He missed a 3-foot putt for a half on the fifteenth green and was then dormie 3 down. A birdie gave him a win on the sixteenth green, but when Shorey, 2 up and 2 to go, halved the seventeenth, the match was over. Shorey was out in 34, 1 under par, as against Hunter's 38, and at the conclusion of the match needed only a par 4 to score 71.

Herrmann Spectacular In Beating Baggett.

Spectacular playing marked the game of Herrman in his afternoon contest against Jesse F. Baggett, Beaver Dam. The latter, although only two strokes over par when the fifth hole had been played, was exactly 5 down, and when the eighth hole had been finished, although then only three strokes over par, was 7 down. Herrman played the first five holes in four birdies and a par, and would have had five birdies in a row if he had not missed a 6-foot putt on the fourth green. He was out in 33 strokes, a phenomenonally low card, and it is not surprising that he speedily eliminated Baggett by the wide margin of 9 up and 7 to play.

Another struggle of more than ordinary interest went to nineteen holes between Charles R. Morrow, Indian Spring, and Ted Burrows, one of the star players at Rock Creek Park. Morrow was 2 down at the sixteenth tee, but won the sixteenth and seventeenth with birdies, after which the contestants fought bravely on until the twentieth hole, when Morrow hooked his drive into the rough and lost the match.

Healy Wins on 19th, Holing Chip Shot.

The contest between M. Olivieri, Argyle, and Donald Healy, Georgetown University, went to the nineteenth hole because on the eighteenth green Oliveri laid Healy a stymie, which Healy failed to negotiate. On the nineteenth hole, however, Healy chipped his ball into the cup for a birdie 3 from a distance of 15 yards off the green. Oliveri tried to run down a 10-foot putt for a half, but the ball rimmed the cup. This morning in the consolation flight of the first sixteen Drain will meet Thomas P. Bones, jr., who carried off the honors of the second sixteen in that event.

Reds Acquire Hendrick From Robins for Cash

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the sale of Harvey Hendrick, reserve outfielder, to the Cincinnati Reds.

Hendrick will report to the Reds at Boston Saturday. The transaction was on a strictly cash basis, the Dodger management said.

Hendrick has been with the Dodgers for four years, coming up from New Orleans, of the Southern Association, in 1927. Before that he had played with Boston and New York in the American League, but never as a regular.

Up until last year Hendrick had never been below .300 in batting for the Dodgers, marking up a .354 in 110 games in 1929. Last year he batted only .287 in 68 games. He was the Dodgers' regular third baseman during most of the 1927 season, but never was a very skillful infielder.

He has appeared only a few times this year.

Tilden Shuns Practice For Richards Match

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—William T. Tilden 2d, who lists his vocation as "journalist and writer," joined the company of fellow authors and actors today in preparation for his professional tennis match Saturday night with Vincent Richards.

He will take his exercise, if any, juggling teacups with the other wielders of the pen and the makeup box and will not swing a racquet until he faces his one-time Davis Cup partner across the net at Madison Square Garden.

"I feel that I've had enough tennis on my tour with Karel Kozeluh," Tilden said, "and do not plan to practice, either today or tomorrow."

Richards today again practiced with Berkeley Bell, one of the best volleyers in the amateur ranks, at his courts in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory. Richards is practicing with specialists in as many different styles of play as possible. Yesterday he played with John Hope Doeg, the national amateur champion and possessor of one of the most burning services in tennis.

Will Rogers to Help Send Poloists to East

Hollywood, Calif., May 7 (A.P.).—Will Rogers is going to see to it that the University of Arizona polo squad gets its chance in the intercollegiate tourney on Long Island in June.

The humorist, a two-handicap polo player himself, will stage a benefit show at Tucson, the proceeds to go toward financing the eastward trip of the Arizona team with its ponies.

Nats in First Test Today In West

Lloyd Brown to Hurl in Series Opener With Tigers.

Western Clubs Not Feared as Possible Pennant Rivals.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

DETROIT, Mich., May 7.—Weather permitting—and it is cold, dark and damp here today—the Nationals tomorrow will play their first of 14 games in the West, meeting the Detroit Tigers. Just how they fare on this jaunt will be watched with much interest by Washington fans, for it was the Nats' failure to turn in their share of victories on their 1930 Western trips that knocked them out of the pennant race; in fact, it was in this very town that they lost first place for the last time last year.

As far as the dope goes, there is no reason why the Nationals should have a great deal of trouble with these Western clubs, for every one admits that the real strength of the league lies in the East. But, for one reason or another last year the Nats hitters stopped hitting, their pitchers stopped pitching and their fielders stopped fielding the minute the team landed in a city in this sector, and this condition obtained until it returned to the East.

Cleveland is generally regarded as the best club in the West but it will be noted that, except for Wesley Ferrell, its pitchers have fared little better than those of Washington in the matter of finishing games they have started. And, when the flingers finally hit their stride, Washington should have a much stronger all-around staff than the Indians.

Tigers, Chisox, Browns Rated Under Nats.

Detroit should get good pitching, but Harris' club can not be mentioned in the same breath with the Nats when it comes to fielding, while the two appear to be on a par in batting. As to Chicago and St. Louis, both undoubtedly are second division teams, yet the Nationals were beaten by the Browns more times last year than they were by any other club and they were handed most of their eight defeats by the Chisox right there in the Windy City. On seasonal play last year, with each club being met 22 times, the Nats won a dozen each from the Indians and Tigers, 14 from the Chisox and only 10 from the Browns.

And, if Manager Walter Johnson hopes to pilot a winner under the wire, his team will have to come out of the doldrums—of all kinds—in which it has found itself so far and do something worth while on its present jaunt. As most of the other entries in the league seem to have had their troubles, too, although only traveling at a .500 clip, the Nats are still only a few games from the top.

Scarritt to Receive Chance in Line-Up.

Johnson realizes this and, in the hopes of getting off to a good start as the Western invasion opens tomorrow, he plans to call on Lloyd Brown, at present the ace of his staff. The young southpaw's record to date is only two victories and two defeats. All told, he has started five, but he pitched well enough to have won all of those had his mates given him a little help.

Outfielder Russell Scarritt, obtained from the Boston Red Sox on waivers, reported to Manager Johnson this afternoon, and appeared to be greatly pleased at his promotion from a chronic cellar finisher to a team given a chance to win the league title. How long he remains with the Nats and whether or not he proves to be of any help, however, remains to be seen.

"Russ is a first-class fly chaser and a fair hitter," said Johnson in discussing his acquisition, "and will be given a chance to break in. I plan to carry but five outfielders when pruning time comes, and Dave Harris just about fills the bill as one of the utility men because he is a slugging right-handed hitter, and we've been clamoring for one for some time. Scarritt bats left handed, and if he sticks through the season he will have to beat out Harry Rice, something I don't think he can do, as Harry has a better arm, is faster, is just as good a fielder and undoubtedly a better batter.

Nats' Newest Member 27 Years of Age.

"However, Scarritt will get his chance, and if he fails to make the grade, probably will be farmed out somewhere, possibly at Chattanooga, and given another chance next spring when conditions may be different."

Scarritt, by the way, was 27 years old last January and has been playing professional ball since 1923. In 113 games last year he hit .289.

According to Skipper Johnson, the next time Pitchers Alvin Crowder or Irving Hadley start a game they should give a good account of them-

Faked Mutuel Ticket Swindle On Pimlico Winners Revealed

BALTIMORE, May 7 (A.P.).—Warning has been sounded by Mortimer M. Mahoney, manager of the pari mutuel department at the Pimlico race track, of the operation here of a group of swindlers who are altering losers' tickets and selling them as winners.

The game, he said, is to offer for sale, away from the track at night, a ticket on one of the day's races for $20 on which the purchaser is told he can collect a much larger sum, the swindler explaining he has been called out of town and will not be able to go to the track the next day and cash the ticket himself.

The group, Mr. Mahoney said, have been pasting losers' tickets together to simulate winners, and they always pick a bargain—a long shot—to make the game worth while.

He said the scheme was worked at Bowie and Havre de Grace, and already several of the worthless tickets have been presented at the cashiers' windows at Pimlico for payment. None, he asserts, have got by the cashiers. The peculiar markings on the genuine tickets are instantly recognizable, he declared.

EQUIPOISE IN FINAL WORKOUT FOR PREAKNESS

Cornelius V. Whitney's winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby is pictured in action in his public trial at Pimlico, his last workout before tomorrow's Preakness. Harry Schillick, crack exercise boy, has the leg up on Equipoise, which was clocked in 1:39 3-5 for the mile and 1:53 2-5 for the mile and a furlong. Equipoise has receded from favoritism since his poor showing at Havre de Grace.

TIGERS DOWN CHISOX FOR 4TH PLACE

Hammers Al Thomas for 4 Runs in One-Third Inning.

DETROIT, Mich., May 7 (A.P.).—Detroit took sole possession of fourth place in the American League standings today by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 1, in the fourth and final game of a series, and made it three out of four over the Windy City team.

Detroit got four of its runs and four hits off Alphonse Thomas, starting pitcher for the White Sox, in the one-third inning he pitched. He was relieved by Faber, who was taken out for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

Marvin Owen, Tiger recruit shortstop, hit his first home run in the majors off Faber in the third. Vic Sorrell, Detroit pitcher, lasted throughout and won his first victory of the season.

Haines Halts Pirates As Cards Win, 11 to 5

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 7 (A.P.).—Jess Haines held Pittsburgh to seven hits today while St. Louis was pounding three Pirate pitchers for fifteen and the Cards made it two straight. The score was 11 to 5. Martin, who batted in Gelbert to win yesterday's game, clouted a home run in the ninth, with one on base, this afternoon.

The game was held up for eighteen minutes in the fifth inning by a shower.

Protest of Cardinals Disallowed by Heydler

New York, May 7 (A.P.).—President John Heydler, of the National League, today announced he had disallowed the protest filed by the St. Louis Cardinals on the game the Chicago Cubs won at Chicago April 19.

The score of the game was 4 to 1. The Cardinals had asked that it be replayed.

The protest was based on the decision of Umpire Charles Moran, who had ruled Riggs Stephenson, Chicago outfielder, had held a ball "momentarily," retiring a St. Louis batter. St. Louis claimed that the ball should have been declared a double.

President Heydler held that the decision was one involving solely the accuracy of the umpire's judgment and that the game shall stand as played.

COURT GETS FIGHT CASE TODAY

Garden Asks Carnera Fight With Sharkey Be Halted.

NEW YORK, May 7 (A.P.).—A boxing problem that may flare into a war between two of the strongest organizations in the game will be laid before the judiciary in Federal Court here tomorrow morning

Risking the most severe penalties the New York State Athletic Commission can mete out, Madison Square Garden of Illinois will ask for a Federal injunction restraining Primo Carnera from fighting Jack Sharkey under the promotion of Jimmy Johnston at Ebbets Field June 10. Affidavits for both sides, one of them of deep significance to the commission, have been filed.

Garden Claiming Prior Contract.

The Garden of Illinois, founded by the late Tex Rickard for the protection of the second Tuney-Dempsey match in Chicago and revived to handle the title bout between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling in Cleveland July 3, claims a contract calling for Carnera to meet the winner of that match in September as well as exclusive right to his services up to that time. Carnera, in his answer filed yesterday, claimed the contract fraudulent, inequitable, and entered into by the Illinois Garden as a subterfuge.

The affidavit, laden with explosive possibilities, however, was filed by Leon See and brought to the surface the jockeying for position that has been going on for months between the New York Commission and the New York Garden. See's affidavit detailed a conversation he had with William F. Carey, president of the new Garden, in which Carey was quoted as saying his board of directors never would sanction another contract with See if the managers of the big Italian broke their agreement and allowed Carnera to fight Sharkey.

Links Carey With Illinois Group.

This affidavit officially linked Carey and the New York Garden for the first time with the Illinois Garden, a connection Carey has stoutly denied since the New York Commission suspended Schmeling, stripped him of recognition as heavyweight champion, and ordered the New York Garden to have no dealings with him. Carnera also was under suspension at that time and Stribling has been suspended since.

G. W. NETMEN IDLE.

An early morning rain thoroughly drenched the courts at Columbia Country Club yesterday, causing a cancellation of the scheduled tennis match between George Washington and Duke Universities. It marked the second Duke cancellation for the Colonials, having been rained out of their proposed match at Durham earlier in the season.

TRIBE LOSES TO BROWNS, 10 TO 4

St. Louis Hits Three Hurlers to Swamp League Leaders.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 7 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns won today's game with Cleveland, 10-4, to take the third and deciding game of the series.

Brown, Indian right-hander, held out well for half the game, but when the St. Louisians got to him in the fifth they started a hitting spree which they kept up against the three successive pitchers sent in to stop the onslaught.

Cubs Beat Reds in 11th After 4-Run Rally in 8th

Chicago, May 7 (A.P.).—It took the Chicago Cubs eleven innings this afternoon to beat the Cincinnati Reds and sweep the three-game series, but they managed to do it by the score of 5 to 4. The Reds had scored four times in the fifth inning off Smith, when Hornsby made the last of three errors.

Trailing by four runs in the eighth, the Cubs jumped on Pitcher Sylvester Johnson and his relief hurler, Bernic, to score four times and tie up the score.

The winning run was scored when Wilson, who was walked, came in on a long fly by Earl Grace, pinch hitter for Zach Taylor.

Charlie Grimm was out of the lineup, suffering from lumbago, but he is expected to be available for the New York series.

Clock Tower, Mate Show Good Trials for Preakness.

50,000 May See Race Tomorrow; Track Not to Be Heavy.

BALTIMORE, May 7 (A.P.).—Preakness dark horses splashed through the rain and mud at Pimlico today and showed that the $50,000 classic for 3-year-olds Saturday is not completely overshadowed by their co-favorites, the Greentree Stable's Twenty Grand and Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Equipoise.

Clock Tower, black son of Snob II—Daylight Savings, M. L. Schwartz's hope, demonstrated that his near defeat of Twenty Grand in the Wood Memorial last Saturday at Jamaica was significant by stepping a mile and a quarter through the slop in 2:11 2-5. A. C. Bostwick's Mate also turned in a workout that showed, according to his trainer, Jim Healey, that "he is in better shape than at any other time in his career." And Mate, a Prince Pal colt, was good enough last fall to beat Equipoise, leading money winner as a 2-year-old, at 7 furlongs. He covered three quarters of a mile today in 1:18 4-5.

Mate's last distance workout was given Monday when he easily negotiated a mile and a quarter in 2:16.

Walter M. Jefford's Aegis was sent an easy mile and an eighth today in 2:06, the time for the mile being 1:50 3-5.

Many Fall as Somerville Scores Easily by 3 Lengths.

By Pass II Triumphs Over Maidens in Opener.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 7.—Eighteen horses started in the fourth running of the Billy Barton Steeplechase. Billy Barton, second in the Grand National three years ago, had the honor of leading the field to the post and was roundly cheered by the large crowd, in which society predominated. Billy Barton, if in training, probably could have beaten the field.

At the barrier, the urge to run arose in Billy, and it was all the redcoat could do to hold the warrior in bounds. He was the star of the show.

Mrs. T. H. Somerville's Annapolis won by three lengths. Mr. Noel Lainge had the mount. R. C. Winmill's Princess Clovelly was second. Mr. R. C. Smith. Canterbury Farm's Hetman, Mr. Regan McKinney, was third.

W. Whitney was injured when his mount, Peppperman, fell. He was taken to a Baltimore hospital. Revolver and Chief James fell at the last jump. C Burton, on Revolver, was injured, but came around all right at the track hospital. J. Park, on Chief James, was uninjured. B. Leslie Behr's horse, Revolver, was badly injured. Mrs. Francis P. Garvan's aged jumper, Brigneil, was killed after falling.

Ledigard was fouth. Twelve finished the tortuous 3-mile journey. All the riders were amateurs, and of the top flight. Regan McKinney scratched his horse, Golden Gorse, and rode Hetman, which finished third.

A crowd of 20,000 came out for the running of the steeplechase. There was much rain during the day.

Bolton led passing the stand first time, Joe Marshall, and Tod Sloan. Tod Sloane took the lead and held it for more than a mile, fell and was remounted by Mr. S. Hirst. Cervena Krev lost his rider. Briguell lost his rider. Silver Bar took the lead on the second round. Princess Clovell then wrested the lead and held on until Annapolis took command. Annapolis, by Man o' War and Panoply paid $30.20.

Hob Nob Defeats Dark Seeker.

The Rancocas Stable's Hob Nob, a Kai-Sang—Barbary colt, was an easy winner of the fifth race, for 2-year-olds, defeating the favorite, Dark Seeker, from the Kilmer Stable. Capt. Parr's Ladino was third. The winner paid $13.80. Watters, on Hob Nob, took the lead after racing Dark Seeker into defeat and drew away. The time was 1:55 1-5.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson's 3-year-old Phalaris colt, By Pass II, eligible for the Preakness and Derby, won the first race, for maiden 3-year-olds, by six lengths. The Rancocas Stable's filly, Tansy, was second, a length in front of the rapidly closing Dark Sin, of the Seagram Stable.

By Pass II was the only horse not covered with mud and his rider, Coltiletti, the only jockey that could be recognized off-hand, as the winner was in front soon after the start, taking the outside to get ahead. The 6 furlongs were run in 1:14 4-5. The track was not very slow, just sloppy. The winner was favorite and paid $3.90.

General Lejeune, Preston Burch's General Thatcher colt, won the second race for 2-year-olds, Coltiletti up, and scoring a double, having piloted the winner of the first race. The Tennessee Stable's Haggerson was second, just getting the place over William Ziegler's General Court. Home Time led from the barrier, but General Lejeune was soon going by the Grayson filly and was never in danger, paying $17.70. The time was 0:55 4-5.

HAGGERSON, outrun to top of home stretch where he was taken wide. He hung after disposing of HOME TIME and just lasted long enough to stall off GENERAL COURT. ANNAPOLIS, taken back off the pace and raced under restraint until last turn of the field began gaining. He finished full of courage and shook off opposition after taking last fence. PRINCESS CLOVELLY was taken to the front going to the twelfth jump, but weakened when the winner challenged. HETMAN, rated under slight restraint, fenced well and made a determined effort going to fifteenth jump. He was tiring last furlong and under hard drive to stall off LE DIGARD. Latter raced along in the middle of the course most of the journey. TOD SLOAN jumped well and showed lot of speed until last time around. He fell at seventeenth jump, but was remounted and finished. CERVENA KIEV fell at first fence and BRIGUELL ran out at fifth jump. BILLYCOCK pulled up at eighteenth fence and REVOLVER and CHIEF JAMES fell at nineteenth jump. PEPPER MAN fell at seventeenth jump.

HOBNOB outran his field from the break, but hung when DARK SEEKER caught him at the top of home stretch, came again when straightened out and, wearing DARK SEEKER down, won going away at end. DARK SEEKER moved up with a rush rounding the far turn and looked to have the winner beaten at furlong pole. She hung when Workman went to a drive. LADINO was a forward contender all the way. PEACOCK ALLEY saved ground entering home stretch.

Workman did not hurry GRIFF W. in early stages, gradually improved his position rounding the far turn, drew away entering the home stretch, but weakened at end and had to be hard ridden to stall off POLITEN. Latter, showing lot of speed in early stages, raced into a long lead on back stretch, responded gamely to punishment and came again last furlong. SEA SCAMP was a forward contender all the way. LADY BIENVILLE met with interference on back stretch.

FAIR BETH, reserved off the pace for the first seven furlongs, responded readily to pressure, came to the outside of the leaders and, finishing fast, took command the last sixteenth. MY SCOOP, on the inside in the early running, dropped back on leaving the back stretch, was placed to punishment and closed with a rush in the middle of the track. SILVER SCEPTER, rated well up with the early pacemaker, was blocked when attempting to move through on the inside at the three-furlong pole, came around GUILFORD to take a brief lead, but faltered in the final sixteenth. GUILFORD had good early speed, saved ground and held on well. INTREPID had no excuses. VILLAGER hung after a bold move at the far turn. MY SCOOP pulled up lame.

CLEARY HERO AS GONZAGA DEFEATS EASTERN, 9-6

Hurler Leads Attack of Purple

His Triple and Homer Decisive Blows in Upset Victory.

Eastern Rally in 9th, Featured by Taylor's Homer, Halted.

GONZAGA HIGH'S baseball team, mostly in the person of Franny Cleary, scored its crowning win of the season yesterday afternoon when it defeated Eastern High, 9-6, on the home grounds of the four times winners of the high school championship.

Cleary's triple with the bases loaded in the second inning proved to be the decisive bingle of the game. Ahead of him were Mills, Gingras and Nolan—Mills and Nolan by the single route and Gingras by a walk. Cleary's hit tore down the third base line and came to rest under the stands in deep left.

Cleary put the finishing touches on Eastern in the seventh and final inning by driving one of the longest home runs ever hit on Eastern Field. No one was on base.

Eastern Starts Second Team.

Eastern's second team started the game, with W. Taylor on the mound. Midway in the second inning Coach Guyon sent in the first team, with Dick Lanahan relieving Taylor. Lanahan was effective after he hit his stride and allowed no runs during the third, fourth and fifth innings, after which he retired in favor of Bill Noonan.

Cleary was effective throughout. He permitted only six safe blows, one of which was a home run by Toby Taylor. Eastern threatened in the last half of the ninth when Cleary walked Calevas, followed by Taylor's home run and another walk, of McAboy. Cleary then forced Snider and G. Taylor to ground weakly out and struck out Fitzpatrick to retire the side.

VA. FAVORITE IN STATE MEET

Cavaliers Are Primed for Track Carnival at Lexington.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 7.—Natural ability plus good condition should make Virginia the favorite in the State track and field meet to be held at Lexington Saturday afternoon. Washington and Lee will furnish the strongest opposition to the Cavaliers, but an Orange and Blue triumph is expected in spite of the strength of the Minks.

Although the Generals were victors in an indoor meet during the winter, Virginia's representatives have made the better showing out of doors so far this spring. Virginia Military Institute and Virginia Polytechnic Institute are not expected to figure in the final count, due to the defeats already administered to them this year.

A new event for the tracksters, a mile relay, will be on the program Saturday and practice in baton-passing is being held daily on Lambeth Field. Coach Archie Hahn says that he will not know who the entrants in this event will be until the last minute, with the condition of the various men at that time the determining factor. The regular quartermilers, MacDonald and Platt, are almost certain to run two of the laps.

Alexandria Youth In Dash for Va.

About 44 men will be taken to Lexington, so that there will be no chance of possible point winners being absent. Herbert Bryant, fourletter athlete from Alexandria, Va., will be seen in a new role, that of sprinter, when he faces the gun in the 100. He is showing much promise in this event.

Capt. Frank Wisner is likely to be the biggest point winner of the day. He is expected with some reason to win the two dashes and the broad jump. The mile will be an interesting race, with Billy Lauck trying to reverse the order of finish with Smith, of V. M. I. The field events will have their usual competent entries.

In the freshman ranks, Virginia, with decisive outdoor victories over V. P. I. and V. M. I., is ranked as a favorite, although the Little Generals eked out a narrow 1-point win over the Virginia yearlings early in the indoor season. The competition, however, will be very stiff, and the outcome of the meet is far from certain.

Coach Hahn is also entering a special four-man team in the mile relay, which will probably be chosen from Hristoff, Dudley, Wilder, Peden and Antrim.

V. P. I. Nine May Play Double-Header Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., May 7.—Last minute showers this afternoon washed out a scheduled tri-State intercollegiate baseball game between Washington and Lee and Virginia Polytechnic on Wilson Field here.

There is a possibility of a doubleheader on alumni field, Virginia Military Institute, tomorrow, with Washington and Lee and V. M. I. meeting V. P. I., but no definite action will be taken till tomorrow morning.

Athletic authorities of the three schools involved are seeking a way to avoid conflict with the Big Four track carnival set for Wilson Field, Washington and Lee, Saturday afternoon. Tristate League standing is so involved that meetings between W. and L. and V. P. I., and V. P. I. and V. M. I. are necessary.

RENEW OLD RIVALRY.

Chapel Hill, N. C., May 7 (A.P.).—After 41 years and 86 games of baseball rivalry, North Carolina and Virginia are all even. Each has won 42 games. Two games ended in ties. The eighty-seventh game will be played here tomorrow.

The Columbia Midgets and Euclid A. C. will meet Saturday on the North Ellipse diamond at 11 a. m. Players of both teams are requested to report promptly.

Montgomery County Nines Open League Play May 17

Maryland Teams to Play Three Times Around in Quest for Capital City League Sectional Honors.

THE five teams entered in the Montgomery County section of The Post's Capital City League will begin play on May 17, it was decided at the final meeting held in the sports department of The Post last night, thus giving those teams desirous of entering until next Tuesday night at midnight to file their franchise fees and player contracts with the league secretary.

It had previously been decided to play twice around, but with all of the clubs willing to play double-headers when necessary, league officials sanctioned a schedule which will give all of the teams three games with each of their rivals.

This will find the season for the league ending about the first of August, or just about the time the District teams will be waging their intersectional battle for the championship of the city.

Following this program, the league officials hope to have the Capital City League champion of Washington and vicinity decided by the last of August, when it is planned to stage an intercity series with teams from this city, Baltimore and Richmond competing. A series of this nature is sure to arouse the interest of the teams, and to urge all of them on to even greater efforts to win the right to represent the Nation's Capital city in the series.

Washington U. Lacrosse Team Is Ready for Va.

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., May 7.—Coach Gus Crothers believes his Washington College lacrosse team has profited by experiences in playing highly rated outfits recently and that the Maroon and Black will meet the University of Virginia at Charlottesville tomorrow afternoon with a chance to bring home a win or at least give a good account of themselves. Virginia, with its past record, should prove about equally matched with the Eastern Shoremen, with the added advantage of playing on the Cavaliers' home grounds.

Washington is weak on the attack and players are inaccurate on striking for the goal, while some of the players have not become proficient in handling the lacrosse weapon. This weakness has accounted, in Crothers' opinion, for some of the losses thus far sustained, notably that with Lafayette when Washington had more than a chance to win but was unable to garner the necessary number of goals out of many chances at the net.

Dean, first attack man, who has been out of the game with a leg injury, is greatly improved and the veteran of two seasons should be in shape for tomorrow's setto. His presence will be a material aid, it is believed, to the Washington forces.

FABER KEEPS MD. LINE-UP INTACT

THE same line-up that routed Penn State last Saturday will return to action Saturday for Maryland University in its important lacrosse game with St. John's at College Park. Coach Jack Faber made this decision yesterday after considerable thought on the subject of possible changes.

Faber is not satisfied with the way some of the positions are being filled, but does not see how he can improve the situation because of lack of experienced material.

Frank Hines, a sophomore who reported only ten dals ago after the conclusion of spring football practice, might be playing one of the points had he been available from the start of the season. He may land a position yet as his work of late has been impressive.

St. John's is regarded the favorite in Saturday's clash, the result of which may determine the 1931 college lacrosse championship.

JAPANESE BEAT IRISH.

South Bend, Ind., May 7 (A.P.).—Hosei University, of Japan, today took the first game of a two-day series from Notre Dame, 4 to 1, behind great pitching by S. Suzuki. Suzuki held the Irish to three hits and was given perfect support. The Japanese batted Romanin from the box in the sixth, but got only two hits off Lisicki during the last three sessions.

SYRACUSE AT ANNAPOLIS FOR RACE

Eyck Silent on Choice of Crew for Test Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 7.—A group of 35 oarsmen, comprising varsity, junior varsity and freshmen, eight-oared crews of Syracuse University, headed by the veteran mentor, "Jim" Ten Eyck, arrived in Annapolis this afternoon and began putting the finishing touches to preparations for the annual regatta with like crews of the Naval Academy to be staged on the Severn River Saturday afternoon.

Local rowing devotees are anticipating a series of fine contests, for Syracuse generally turns out formidable aggregations of sweepsters, and added to that is the fact that there is a good bit of natural rivalry between the two institutions by reason of Ten Eyck having coached Naval crews for several seasons nearly 30 years ago, preceding the advent of "Dick" Glendon, another veteran at the coaching game, who still is handling the Middies.

Rival Crews Prep For Race.

The rival crews did not take to the water until after 5 o'clock. It had been showery and blustery throughout the greater part of the day. Fair conditions of water greeted the bladesmen as they launched their shells and paddled up the river for the workouts. The crews confined their activities to practicing racing starts and then a dash over the racing course as a final time trial. A similar program will be carried out tomorrow as the final tightener for the brushes.

Ten Eyck had little to say as to the strength of his crews and prospects of the outcome of the race. The Orange crew are, however, admittedly strong, due to the fine crop of material remaining from last year. Navy people have come to call Ten Eyck, "Foxy Jim." Today he put two crews on the water which he called "varsity," and would not say which one would be chosen as the contender in the main event of Saturday's regatta.

Sophomores Expected To Compete.

Indications are, however, that the choice will go to the boatload composed largely of last year's freshmen eight, which romped off with the honors in the annual regatta at Poughkeepsie in that class. This group is stroked by Lombardi, a powerful lad who set the pace on the Hudson last year. He and Jackson, No. 6 oar, were the heaviest men in any of the crews on the water. Each tips the scales at 195. This crew averages 178 5-8, compared to the Navy varsity's average of 182. The Middies have worked off some of their avoirdupois since the race against Columbia two weeks ago, when they averaged over 184 pounds.

Twin Netmen on G. W. Team Could Be Basis of a Coup

Raphael (left) and Laurence Sherfy, George Washington's twin tennis players, who give promise of making their mark in local tournaments this season. Both play on the Colonial varsity team.

Sherfy Boys Might Be Used to Double Up on Opponent.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

ON cloudy days, when the visibility is not especially good, Max Farrington, in charge of George Washington University's tennis team, might pull what the boys generally call "a fast one." On the Colonial net squad this year are the Sherfy twins, alike as those two historical peas. "The fast one" would be to have Laurence play with all his might against an opponent, for a set, and then—when he was toweling himself on the sidelines—to have Raphael come out of the other fold in the towel, and go on with the match.

Tennis ability is finally coming to the Sherfys after several years of bogus "form" playing, and now they find themselves possessors of almost perfectly executed stroke, and also good tennis players—two exigencies which do not always go arm in arm. They have done well with George Washington, both having turned in singles wins and combined as a doubles team to score more victories.

They learned to play on the same day, about six years, on the courts at Central Presbyterian Church. Both became very much absorbed in the game and became fixtures at the Mount Pleasant library, delving into the history of the game and the intricacies of the backhand grip. They played a great deal, while at Central, but never made the team, their smooth strokes being uncertain in harbingers of their real skill.

Their shots started to go in this year and being sophomores it appears that they will be reckoned with in college competition for some time to come.

Their similarity goes deeper than outward appearances. They hit their shots in exactly the same fashion and can make no headway against the other. They met twice last year in tournament play, Raphael winning once, 6—1, 1—6, 6—4 and Laurence the next time, 6—3, 3—6, 7—5.

They are the sons of Dr. Raphael Sherfy, 3427 Fourteenth street northwest, and probably will be seen in most of the local tournaments this year.

TECH MEETS BUSINESS TODAY

3 Other D. C. School Nines in Action on Foreign Fields.

ONE of the three last editions of the 1931 high school baseball series will be run off this afternoon at Eastern Field. The contest brings together Business and Tech, two confirmed also rans, at 3:30 o'clock. A victory for Business will mean a second place tie with Central, while the best Tech can do with its status quo is to demolish its last place tie with Western.

Tech, despite a record of .000 in the schoolboy loop, looms as the victor today. Business has suffered the loss of four more or less regular players—Mastromarino and Frayden, catchers; Jacobson, short stop, and Eisenstadt, outfielder. This quartet failed in studies during the last advisory period.

For seasoning purposes Coach Mal Edwards, of Tech, leans toward the use of his rookie pitcher, George Woods, today, but Everett Russell will be ready to step into the box if Business' own murderer's row—Duryee, Fratantuono and Flynn—begin to collide with Woods' offerings.

Woodworth to Use Garner on Mound.

Coach Woodworth probably will use Jimmy Garner again, his pitching ace having been spared work in the Alexandria game Wednesday.

Three other local high schools swing into action today, but in foreign climes. Central engages Washington-Lee High at Ballston, Gonzaga visits Charlotte Hall, St. Alban's plays Gilman School in Baltimore, while the well-drilled National Training School Nine will play Columbian College, George Washington University intramural champions. This latter game, which promises to be one of the most interesting of the day, will be played at the Training School, on Bladensburg road, beginning at 2 o'clock.

TEN OR MORE PREAKNESS STARTERS

Twenty Grand Paired With Surf Board; Mate Likes Mud.

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 7.—There will be ten or more starters in the Preakness regardless of weather conditions. Twenty Grand, coupled with Surf Board as the Greentree Stable entry of Mrs. Payne Whitney will start, according to James Rowe, trainer, tonight.

There is a misapprehension about Twenty Grand's favoritism depending on the condition of the track he runs over. In the Futurity last year at Pimlico, in the mud, it was Twenty Grand that ran Mate into defeat, leaving the way open for Equipoise to battle his way to the front. Surf Board is a superior mudder, and while a bad track might not be the one to choose for Twenty Grand, he can run in mud. But the track may be good by Saturday, as clear and colder weather is forecast.

Mud Would Benefit. Mate Most.

The horse that would benefit most by mud is Mate. He worked fast this morning. Aegis, of the Jeffords Stable, is a mudder and will start. Clock Tower will start. Equipoise will go regardless of track condition. If muddy, he would be the favorite. If fast, the Greentree horses will be the favorite entry. Mate should never be overlooked; neither should Surf Board. From present prospects the track will not deter any prominent horse except Ladder from the race.

EXPERTS TO REPORT CAUSE OF COLLAPSE AT CITY HIGH SCHOOL

Engineers Believe Finding Will Settle Technical Problems Involved.

RULING TO BE PUBLISHED AFTER FINAL HEARING

Maj. John Gotwals Denies District Plans to Seek Building Bureau.

The board of inqhiry named last Tuesday to rule on certain engineering and architectural principles involved in the controversy over responsibility for the collapse of the steel framework at Roosevelt High School will make its report to the District Commissioners today.

Following a three-hour session, Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Enginer Commissioner and chairman of the committee, announced late yesterday that a thorough report had been prepared. He declined to make its contents public, however, until the board submits its findings to the Commissioners. The report will settle the engineering question, he predicted.

The board, which included two civilian experts—Edward W. Donn, jr., architect, and Lester G. Wilson, civil engineer—had before it the design of the steel skeleton which gave way before a wind storm, but it made no examination of the school project itself.

Plan for Bureau Denied.

Maj. John C. Gotwels, Engineer Commissioner, yesterday emphatically denied published reports that Congress would be asked by District officials at its next session to establish a municipal construction department.

"I don't know where the report could have originated," he said, "as I have had nothing of the sort in mind. In fact, I think it would be very foolish for the District government to try to erect its own buildings, especially at this time, when bids fall so far below our own lowest estimates."

There is such keen competition among builders nowadays because of the scarcity of jobs, he explained, that bids often run 30 or 40 per cent below District estimates even when the latter are cut to the bone.

Problems Before Board.

The board of inquiry appointed by the District heads at the recommendation of Maj. Gotwals had two specific questions to answer. They are:

"Is the type of construction used in the Roosevelt High School—free standing steel columns embedded in brick walls—sound beyond question?

"Was it practicable to erect this steel without hazard of collapse?"

John W. Oehmann, District building inspector, and his aids, together with representatives of Heron Todd, steel contractor, will make precise measurements today of the supporting steel framework and the concrete base of the McKinley High School roof.

While convinced to their own satisfaction of the soundness of the roof, they want to remove any lingering doubt that may have been raised by the allegations of Mr. Todd.

Berberich's Faces Bankruptcy Plea

Creditors Claim Store Has $76,000 Debts, With $32,000 Assest.

A petition to have the Robert Berberich's Sons, Inc., at 1200 and 1202 F street northwest, adjudged bankrupt was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by three Ohio concerns whose claims against the store amount to $2,521.55.

In the petition the claim is made that the corporation is insolvent and that it is indebted to the extent of $76,000. The assets will not exceed $32,000, the three petitioners assert. The Imperial Shoe Co., with a claim of $577.50; the Krippendorf Dittman Co., with a claim of $1,853, and the Air Mail Shoe Co., with a claim of $91.50 are the petitioners.

The creditors ask that a receiver be appointed pending election of a trustee in bankruptcy. It was pointed out that attachments have been levied against the assets of the store, which is conducted not only by the Berberich Corporation, but by the United Shoe Co. and five others, who conduct separate departments. Suits aggregating $56,600 have been filed against the corperation within the past few days. Attorneys Albert E. Steinem and Milton D. Korman filed the petition.

Greater Capital Fund Is Secured

$50,000 to Advertise Attractions of Washington Already Subscribed.

Sufficient money has been obtained to insure the first year of operation of the Greater National Capital committee of the Washington Board of Trade, it was announced at a luncheon meeting of the campaign committee yesterday by Robert W. Fleming, chairman of the committee. The quota set for the first year's work was $50,000.

Principal objectives of the committee are: The advertising of Washington and its attractions; securing of more conventions and acquainting the Nation with the attractions of Washington as a home city, with the view of bringing more permanent residents.

The campaign bureau is now in full operation under the direction of Ward H. Marsh, who directed the Greater Detroit movement. Although the quota has been reached, and solicitation will be suspended for the time being, subscriptions to carry on the work into the second year will be welcomed, it was announced.

Bribery Is Laid to Prisoner.

Herbert R. Cole, 39-year-old Negro, was charged with bribery yesterday after being arrested by two Sixth Precinct policemen, who alleged he offered them $5 to help pay the ice bill. The accused was taken in custody today by T. D. Bacon and H. L. Anderson near his home on Seaton court near Second street northwest.

Lone Last Man's Club Survivor To Trod Again Scene of Battle

Capt. Charles M. Lockwood, last survivor of the Last Man's Club, of the First Minnesota regiment, was deeply touched yesterday when he stood before the monument in Arlington Cemetery which honors the memory of more than 2,000 unidentified Civil War dead. He is pictured looking at the inscription.

HALF OF PITTS BOND ORDERED CANCELED

Former Financier Is Given Heavy Guard on Trip From District Jail.

With an escort of five deputy United States marshals, G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co., who now stands sentenced to serve 14 years in jail, was hurried to the District Supreme Court yesterday at the request of professional bondsmen who wished to surrender him and cancel their bonds of $100,000.

Pitts was taken before Justice Jesse Adkins, who, in a perfunctory hearing, ordered cancellation of half of the bond, which had been underwritten by Patrick O'Connor. The other half, held by Milton Kronheim, was left standing since Kronheim declared he had no objections to the bond remaining in force.

O'Connor's move to cancel the bond was made, he said, because he wished to use the bond money in other cases.

Pitts seemed unconcerned while his attorneys debated in court the cancellation of his bond. His wife, who has stood by him through his trial, was in court and she affectionately greeted him when deputy marshals allowed them to meet. The hearing over, he was hurried back to jail with the unusual escort of five marshals. Rumors of an impending jail break and other stories of a like nature caused the extra precautions.

Search of Physician For Son Successful

The search which a Capital physician has conducted for his son during the last two months ended yesterday when Elmer G. Manning, 24, was taken in custody as he was about to board a taxicab at Fourteenth and F streets northwest. After being booked at the First Precinct Station, he was transferred to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

Policeman Homer H. Hartman, who is acquainted with both Manning and his father, took the man from the cab. The elder Manning happened to be standing at the intersection at the time and, with Hartman, accompanied his son to the station. According to police, the Mannings live at 2800 Ontario road northwest.

District Man Sued For Order of China

Italian Manufacturer Asks $5,500 Alleged Due on Promissory Notes.

Ettore Camerino, of Venice, Italy, manufacturer of fine tableware, yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court for $5,500 against Lewis Hopfenmaier 2d, in payment of a large order of glassware, china and other articles.

The suit charges that the consignment was made up at Mr. Hopfenmaier's request in 1930, and that most of the articles have a monogram baked on them that would render them not readily salable. Through Attorneys Daniel W. O'Donoghue and Daniel W. O'Donoghue, jr., the claim is made that Mr. Hopfenmaier has repudiated the order and that he has refused to meet the promissory notes.

Judgment in the amount covered by the notes is asked. The goods are now held in Italy and are ready to be shipped when paid for, the suit says.

Capt. Lockwood, Now 88, Visits in Washington and Takoma Park.

Says Bottle of Burgundy Has Not Been Turned Into Vinegar.

The Capital of the United States, which once knew the rumble of Civil War guns, was host yesterday to Capt. Charles M. Lockwood, 88-year-old member of the Grand Army of the Republic and lone survivor of the Last Man's Club.

No sooner had he stepped from the train at Union Station than reporters besieged the doughty soldier and opened a crossfire of questions, placing emphasis on one in particular.

Was that wine actually all right?

There was none but Capt. Lockwood left when the roll was called in Stillwater, Minn., last July 21 at the forty-sixth annual reunion and the bottle of wine, symbol of the thirty-four veterans of Company B, First Minnesota, who had formed the Last Man's Club, was opened. There were saddening reports that the erstwhile Burgundy had turned to vinegar, soured by the passing years.

In reply, the genial visitor pulled a small bottle from an inside pocket and passed it around.

"That's it," he said, "taste it for yourself! Vinegar, umph! It's Burgundy—and good enough for Burgundy. But I've always thought it was foolish to have wine. It should have been good Irish whisky."

With vibran toice and glowing eyes, the veteran reviewed the clhb's history and described his feelings when, last Jdly, the secretary called the entire roll and he was the only one to respond, "I am here, sir."

"It makes a fellow think, watching them drop out that way, one at a time", he said. "I guess maybe I didn't spoil much good whisky in my lifetime for that very reason. I'd no idea I'd be the last one when it started. Some were as young as I was.

"But getting together that way every year kept us all mighty close. We didn't forget much. That's why I'm going over the whole ground again."

In company with George A. Duthie, his son-in-law, who is chief of the information service of the United States Forestry Service, Capt. Lockwood expects to make a tour of the fields where the First Minnesota fought. Mr. and Mrs. Duthie live in Takoma Park, Md., and Capt. Lockwood is tsnt aylehrtagiohem. mc wood is staying at their home.

"At Bull Run," h esaid, "I ran—plenty fast—when we got the order." He chuckled. "But I did stop to care for a couple of wounded first."

Yesterday he paid a soldier's respects to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of tsaff, and visited the Lincoln Memorial and Arlington Cemetery.

"I remember the first time I saw Abe Lincoln," he said, as he approached with awe and respect the imposing white monument. "It was on Arlington Heights, a grand review. He sat on a fine black horse, with her plug hat set back, like this."

He pushed back his gray cap to illustrate.

"And that plug of hair of his was hanging down like this. I thought he was about the homeliest man I ever saw in my life."

"That's a grand monument of Lincoln," the captain said as he glimpsed the shrine's central figure. "Just as natural as can be. I saw him three or four times while we were camped around here before and after the battle of Bull Run. Once I called on him and shook hands with him. That was after Bull Run. He was always kind to all the soldiers and glad to see them."

Capt. Lockwood dated all his reminiscences by the first battle of Bull Run, the anniversary which his company selected to celebrate each year until only he survived and 33 chairs were draped in black.

He paid homage, at Arlington, to the Unknown Soldier, but was especially touched at viewing the monument near Lee Mansion which honors the 2,111 unidentified veterans whose bones "were gathered after the war from the fields of Bull Run and the route to the Rappahannock."

Expressing the hope that he would find in Washington some G. A. R. cronies with whom he could observe Memorial Day on Arlington Heights, Capt. Lockwood added: "I don't know what they'll do without me back home in Chamberlin. I always take charge of the celebration Memorial Day. But I just told the ladies I couldn't do it this year * * * I'd be on Arlington Heights."

HAY-ADAMS HOUSE RECEIVER IS ASKED

Removal of Swartzell and Rheem as Trustees Urged in Suit.

Affairs of the Hay-Adams House, Sixtenth and H stretsnorthwest, were further complicated yesterday when two holders of trust notes asked the District Supreme Court to appoint a receiver to operate the institution in the interests of themselves and other noteholders.

The suit was filed on behalf of Mae E. Butscher and John C. Maynard, who between them own $3,000 in notes. They were represented by Attorneys Walter B. Guy and William E. Furey.

The suit also seeks to have Luther A. Swartzell and Edmund D. Rheem, trustees under the deed of trust, removed as trustees, and others appointed by direction of the court. A $650,000 deed of trust, made by Harry Wardman, Thomas P. Bones and James D. Hobbs is mentioned in the suit, with the request that it be declared in default and a court sale ordered. The money was a construction loan, the suit asserts.

An accounting of the Hay-Adams financial operations and a temporary injunction to prevent the sale of the furnishings in the hotel also are incorporated in the suit. The furnishings were recently brought into the case when a chattel mortgage on the furniture was exhibited and the claim made that default in payment had occurred. Sale of the furniture was asked in this prior suit to satisfy the chattel mortgage.

The Hay-Adams House now is operated by M. M. Doyle, Julius I. Peyser and Henry P. Blair, trustees for the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., which holds the stock of the company. The suit also discloses the allegation that the Hay-Adams House has been unable to show a return on the money invested in it.

The dial system is celebrating its first anniversary of operation in Washington.

Friends Shower Greetings As Woman, 100, Celebrates

Joking and laughing with her many callers as she sat amid an array of flowers, banked high on either side, receiving congratulations, Mrs. Diana Cole Hazelton, of 3137 Thirty-eighth street northwest, yesterday celebrated her one-hundreadth birthday.

From all parts of the country came telegrams and letters wishing her a "happy birthday and many more." Gifts and flowers poured into her home throughout the day from the host of friends she has made during her 74 years in Washington.

Neighbors dropped in every few minutes to leave their best wishes, and last night Mrs. Hazelton listened to the radio as a special feature was broadcast in her honor. The greatest day in her life came to an end leaving her fatigued, but happy in the thought that next year she looks forward to an even greater celebration on her one hundred and first birthday.

Mrs. Hazelton lives with her two daughters, Miss Anna Hazelton and Miss Lillie Hazelton. Her husband, Asa Hazelton, died in 1906 at the age of 99.

MEETING TO BE HELD ON JUNIOR COLLEGE

G. W. University to Sponsor Session Here With Heads of Other Institutions.

A conference on the junior college, its organization and its problems, will be held under the auspices of the George Washington University on Saturday at the Cosmos Club. Heads of junior colleges in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia have been invited by the university to attend. Delegates will assemble for luncheon at 1 o'clock and will remain afterward for a discussion session.

Dr. George F. Zook, president of the University of Akron, will be the principal speaker at the conference. As secretary of the committee on accrediting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Dr. Zook is in close touch with the junior college movement. Other speakers will be Dr. Cloyd Bock Marvin, president of the George Washington University; Dean Henry Grattan Doyle, of the university's junior college, and Prof. Harold G. Sutton, chairman of the committee on admissions.

The George Washington University has become a leader in the junior college movement. The junior college includes the work of the freshman and sophomore years, not only of the college of letters and sciences, but of all of the professional schools. The courses of study are organized to provide the basic training necessary as prerequisite for the wor kof the higher divisions. Thus it acts as a service school to the professional schools and the senior college, and also provides a complete two-year curse for those who desire more training than is afforded by the secondary school, but can not take a full college course.

Poison, Gas Kill Hundreds of Rats

Extermination of Pests at Old Center Market Is Going Ahead.

The site of the old Center Market looked like a battlefield after it had been swept by poison gas last night—at least to the surviving rats.

The municipal refuse department was called into service by George J. Adams, jr., generalissimo of the campaign, to carry away the bodies of several hundred rodent inhabitants who were lured to their deaths by the scent of tempting food.

Red squill, which was placed in the food under the direction of Frank N. Jarvis, Department of Agriculture rodent control expert, had apparently taken a heavy toll, and its sponsors declared that the extermination had just begun.

For the next several days an armistice will be in force until the dead can be removed. As there is still plenty of bait about, however, the deaths are likely to continue, even though no more poison is set out. Mr. Adams announced that sufficient men will be kept on the site to remove the rats as soon as they expire.

MR. CHESTERTON AND THE AMERICAN VILLAGE.

OUR villages may not be lovely,
As Chesterton seems to imply,
But neither is Gilbert K.,
frankly,
A wonderful treat to the eye.

Our suburbs may not be entrancing—
They're awkward and sprawling and fat—
But, "Chessie," you ought to be, surely,
The last man to criticize that!

Elmer Twitchell thinks that the Bobby Jones golf pictures would have more of an appeal to the cinema fans if he had somebody like Marlene Dietrich caddy for him.

BETHLEHEM STEEL earned 6 cents a share for the first quarter, 1 cent more than U. S. Steel. And we'll bet Charlie Schwab never got more of a kick out of a million dollars than he got out of that extra penny.

Credit for the best last paragraph shapper of the week goes to Col. Keller, former chief of staff of Gen von Gallwitz's armies in the World War. In a reply to Gen. Pershing's story and concluding a plea for American assistance at this time, he declares, "We Germans are awaiting the words, 'Von Steuben, we are here!'"

WONDERS WILL NEVER CEASE.

'INTERDEPENDENCE' OF NATIONS CITED

Strawn Addresses Luncheon of Trade Executives From 31 Countries.

Increasing "interdependence" of the nations of the earth was hailed as a sign of the times yesterday by Silas Strawn, newly elected president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in remarks before the Washington Trade Association executives luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel.

The head of the American delegation to the International Chamber of Commerce was one of the representatives of 31 foreign countries greeted by Leslie C. Smith, president of the American Trade Association executives, at the luncheon held jointly with the Washington group.

Speaking for the American trade representatives, Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, of New York, said American business groups "have much to learn from Europe." American associations long ago reached the realization that "the best interests of the public and of the trade associations are one and the same," he said. He predicted the latter would rise to a new sphere of usefulness.

E. Raymond Streat, of the British delegation to the International Chamber, responded for the foreign representatives. He expressed admiration for the way in which he said Americans "pool their ideas and inventions" through trade associations. He declared that this faculty, in his opinion, is largely responsible for American industrial progress. Mr. Streat contrasted Britis htrade associations, where executives pass most of their time negotiating with trade unions, with the American idea.

Harold R. Young, president of the Washington Trade Association executives, presided at the session.

When the traffic director swung his arm suddenly as a signal, the pedestrian's body stopped the swing. Sergt. Reed escorted her to the sidewalk but she insisted it wasn't serious and went on her way.

In the excitement, she forgot to get the question answered.
